

Ottawa Bets on Peace, Cuts Arms

Prospects Best In Years

OTTAWA (CP).—The government made it pretty plain Thursday it is gambling on continuation of easier world tensions and possibly an East-West disarmament agreement.

External Affairs Minister Green has said there is more hope now for a disarmament agreement than at any time in the last 14 years.

BIG BITE

This hope has been translated into a slash of nearly $100,000,000—six per cent—in defence spending, with the biggest bite eating into procurement of new weapons and equipment. (See other estimates news on page 10.)

Officials said no provision is made in the estimates for any new item of equipment beyond those already announced but not yet delivered.

SMALLER SHARE

In the fiscal year starting April 1, defence will account for 27.8 per cent of the total government expenditures, compared with 29.6 per cent in the current fiscal year.

The government's main spending estimates tabled Thursday in the Commons present Parliament with a defence bill of $1,596,272,266, a decrease of $98,921,740 from the current year and the smallest outlay since 1951-52.

Estimated expenditures on weapons and equipment were chopped 13 per cent, or $44,000,000, to $280,000,000, smallest amount since the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950.

LESS UPKEEP

Cost of maintaining the forces and their present weapons was estimated at $1,118,353,453, a slight decrease of $10,000,000 effected through lower expenditures on repair and upkeep of equipment.

Reduced spending for new weapons can be attributed partly to a tapering-off in some major programs such as procurement of anti-submarine planes, and partly to unwillingness, at present to provide the forces, especially the army, with new weapons such as missiles.

DOWN DRAIN

The government apparently feels such expenditures would be money down the drain if some agreement were reached at coming disarmament negotiations.

The navy will get more for ships—$40,426,000 against $29,282,000—and the CF-104 jet plane for the RCAF air division in Europe will cost $75,000,000 in 1960-61.

Satellite Failure

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP).—The Discoverer IX satellite rocket failed to reach orbital speed and fell back into the atmosphere Thursday.

The air force said the second stage failed to reach the required speed for reasons unknown.

This was the third failure of nine Discoverers launched so far. None has performed the main mission to eject a capsule so it can be recovered.

High Winds Hit Town

Victoria was buffeted by 42-mile-an-hour winds that gusting to 62 at 11:20 p.m. yesterday.

The east-southeasterly winds were attributed to an approaching upper weather front expected to pass over the city this morning and were stronger than had been expected, a weather office spokesman said.

Wild Welcome to Cuba

Shaken and bewildered by crushing reception at Havana airport, Russia's Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan is conducted through yelling crowd by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Mikoyan was so pleased by the welcome that he walked several blocks through downtown Havana later in the day, genially shaking hands with Cubans and accompanied by trotting urchins as well as a casual bodyguard.—(AP Photofax.)

Border Fight Spreads

JERUSALEM (AP).—Skirmishing broke out on a second sector of the Israeli-Syrian frontier Thursday. Syrians and Israelis exchanged fire near Shaar Yashuv, 25 miles north of the Tawafik battle zone. Nobody seemed hurt seriously. Syrian and Israeli accounts agreed the skirmish erupted at 12:30 p.m. Each blamed the other.

RETURNED FIRE

"Fire opened from Syrian strongholds on an Israeli patrol," an Israeli spokesman said. "The fire was returned. One of the patrol was slightly wounded."

In Damascus, an Arab spokesman said an Israeli armored car pushed into the frontier demilitarized zone and fired on Syrian outposts, but Syrian gunners did not immediately reply.

ANOTHER CAR

Half an hour later another armored car arrived and both opened up against Syrian positions, the Arabs said, and the Syrians shot back and damaged one of the cars.

The Israelis said one of their policemen was wounded earlier by Syrian gunfire.

Big Crowds Welcome Dr. Moore

LAND'S END, England (AP).—Dr. Barbara Moore triumphantly trudged the last few miles of her 1,000-mile walk from top to bottom of Britain tonight despite an aching ankle and the worst of British weather.

The 56-year-old vegetarian was near the village of Hayle in Cornwall, 15 miles from her destination at Land's End on the southwest toe of England.

Crowds lined the sidewalk six deep in every little town along her route. Dr. Moore greeted them with a grin, a wave, and some times she shouted: "I'll do it, I'll do it."

Talks Collapse

Lying, Says U.S. Bad Faith—Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI).—The United States and the Soviet Union wrangled angrily yesterday over collapse of lend-lease settlement talks set up by President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev last fall.

The Soviet embassy here issued a statement upbraiding the United States for bad faith in breaking off the negotiations. The state department icily countered that in effect the Russians were lying about what Khrushchev said.

The negotiations on the Second World War debt owed the U.S. by the Russians broke off last week because Soviet representatives insisted any settlement be tied to a relaxation of trade barriers and long-range U.S. loans to Russia.

The Soviet embassy claimed Khrushchev made it plain to Eisenhower at Camp David that any settlement talks had to be tied to trade and credit concessions to the Russians.

But a state department spokesman said: "Khrushchev stated that he didn't need any credits and he didn't want any credits."

The spokesman also said Eisenhower clearly advised Khrushchev that removal of trade restrictions and repeal of a law barring private loans to Russia was up to congress and would have to be dealt with separately.

Wherever You Go ---Radio

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP).—Convicts were working on streets here. One asked permission of a guard to go into a nearby automobile accessories store.

"Why?" he was asked.

"I want to get a battery for my transistor radio," he replied, "because the one in it has gone out and I just can't work as well without it."

U.S. Storing Nerve Gas In Colorado

WASHINGTON (AP).—The United States has enough nerve gas on hand "to kill every man, woman and child in the world," the U.S. House of Representatives was told Thursday by Representative Byron Johnson (Dem.-Colo.), who said the gas is stored in his congressional district and that "a drop or two on the skin is fatal."

Events Cry Out: Look to Future

"British Columbia is ready to take off in the 60s," Trade Minister Robert Bonner told the legislature yesterday. (See also page 2.)

He said population is expected to increase from 1,595,000 as of Jan. 1 this year, to 2,200,000 by Jan. 1, 1970.

Personal income is expected to soar from $2,790,000,000 in 1959 to $4,800,000,000 in 1969.

SALES, OUTPUT

Retail sales are expected to jump from $1,688,000,000 to $3,100,000,000 in the same 10-year period; net value of production from $1,887,500,000 to $3,000,000,000; and the total labor force from 560,000 to 775,000.

Mr. Bonner pointed out B.C. population is growing at twice the national rate for Canada. He said that the United States population is expected to increase 20 per cent, to 210,000,000 people by 1970.

IMPACT GREATER

"We know now what we sell to 180,000,000 Americans. Add 20 per cent to their number and the impact upon us is not merely 20 per cent greater but, in the increasing complexity of our North American economy, a great deal more," he said.

"The events cry out to us, urging for preparation for the future," he said.

NO GRASP

He said there is a widespread inability or unwillingness to grasp the sense and the impact of events around us, "events which cannot fail to have a marked effect on the future development of the province."

"A future not less, but more promising than the record of the past."

PAST GAINS

He said that in 1950, selling value of B.C. factory shipments was at $1,133,000,000 and in 1959 reached just short of $2,000,000,000; in 1950 population was 1,137,000, today it is just short of 1,600,000; personal income was $1,398,000,000 in 1950, today it is about double at $2,790,000,000; in 1950 B.C. road users burned up 157,000,000 gallons of gasoline, today they burn 321,000,000 gallons annually; last year B.C. used 12,350,000,000 kilowatts of electrical energy, almost three times as much as in 1950.

DOUBTERS WRONG

"The doubters 10 years ago, would have been the majority but in point of fact time would have proven them wrong," he said.

"We are ready for much greater things, but the extent of our take-off in the 1960s lies in our ability to continue to attract capital and in increasing measure to produce it ourselves," he said.

DEVELOPMENT

"It will be necessary before we can take a great leap forward to develop one or more substantial manufacturing sectors with a high rate of growth," he observed.

Development in the next decade of the province's great energy resources—found in hydro-electric sites and in oil and natural gas deposits, will raise the industrial potential of the B.C. economy at least tenfold," he said.

ENERGY IS KEY

"Energy, more than anything else, will prove the major factor in the attraction and subsequent establishment of heavy industry in this province," he said.

Mr. Bonner lamented that those opposing the plans for development of power in the province have so far discussed the question of hydro-electricity quite apart from any other influence, such as economic growth.

TRADE MINISTER BONNER
... better than ever

Columbia Might Hurt B.C. Trade

Cheap electricity alone will not open United States' markets to British Columbia production of even the most power-sensitive commodities, Trade Minister Robert Bonner warned the legislature yesterday.

He said B.C. might be hurting its own industry through development of the Columbia. "By making available to the United States more than 1,000,000 kilowatts of downstream power benefits, the Americans will be physically able to replace with their own production, present or potential imports of British Columbia-produced power-sensitive commodities, especially aluminum," he said.

"We may be doing ourselves a disservice, unless we tackle simultaneously the problem of access to American markets by tariff adjustment," he warned.

Snow Thuds Off Roofs Onto People

HALIFAX (CP).—Maintenance crews wearing snowshoes worked Thursday to entangle fallen power lines along the Nova Scotia south-west coast as the province continued to dig out from the worst winter storm of the century.

Sunny skies greeted Nova Scotians Thursday, but tons of snow that accumulated on buildings during Wednesday's 30-inch snowfall tumbled from the roofs onto many pedestrians.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

GARY NIXON, 21-year-old fourth-year arts student at UBC, bet $1,300 that the full-length cartoon "Animal Farm" would be a success with Victoria and Vancouver audiences.

No commercial movie theatre would touch "Animal Farm," the British cartoon version of George Orwell's political allegory and satire.

Movie men said the cartoon was too controversial and lacking in popular appeal.

Even UBC Film Society, dedicated to promoting off-beat films, wouldn't touch it—until Gary Nixon offered to underwrite it with his own money.

His $1,300 covered the rental of one theatre in Vancouver and one in Victoria, for two nights. The Victoria theatre was the Fox at Quadra and Hillside, owned by Gary Nixon's father, B. A. Nixon.

If people had stayed away from "Animal Farm," and Gary Nixon had been forced to dig into his own pocket for expenses, he would have lost a year of university.

But people came in good numbers. "Animal Farm" made a profit. Now it is being held over at the Fox until Saturday.

Proceeds will be used by UBC-Film Society to bring other films of high artistic merit to Victoria and Vancouver.

The cartoon tells how the pigs, cows, horses, sheep, chickens and other livestock rebelled against their cruel and drunken human master, turned him off his own farm and set up a collective state of equal shares and equal work.

All went cheerily until a crafty pig called Napoleon wangled and murdered his way to a position of privileged leadership and created an elite governing class of pigs who caroused while the other beasts toiled and suffered.

Talking animals are a perilous device. Does anyone recall how the audiences laughed at the "serious" speeches of a cobra, delivered in hoarse whispers, in "The Jungle Book"? One false move shatters belief.

But I thought "Animal Farm" plausible throughout, and its allegory well sustained.

For "Animal Farm," as I mentioned, the film society rented the theatre and collected the profits. Luckily, there were some profits. Other films will be shown here under the same arrangement.

In addition, Mr. Nixon, senior, is bringing some art films or minority-appeal films here at his own risk. Next week it will be a Russian film called "The Inspector General."

The Nixons, father and son, suspect that the "art film" will be the life-raft that keeps some small theatres afloat. "These films appeal to people who don't watch TV—the people who don't even go regularly to movies, but would rather read a book. I think there are enough of them in Victoria."

Oak Bay Theatre, another small house which has survived in spite of television, ran "Henry V" in the same week that the Fox ran "Don Quixote," and did all right.

Another reason why the Fox has survived is that it is a family theatre. Mr. and Mrs. Nixon Senior are most of the staff. Gary worked there for some time, on the door and on the booking end. He will be back there this summer.

"I'm not one of the people who believe that a movie is good just because it's foreign," the younger Mr. Nixon says. There is more movie-making talent in the United States than anywhere else, but it is being stifled by taboos and unimaginative commercial management.

Profits from "Animal Farm" will help bring Victoria and Vancouver "The Magnificent Ambersons," Orson Welles film made in the days when that able man was given a free hand with a film.

It is of the same vintage as "Citizen Kane," the smash-hit fictional biography of publisher William Randolph Hearst which was acclaimed as one of the finest movies ever filmed.

Welles made one more film of importance—"The Magnificent Ambersons." Then the company fired him, before he even had a chance to edit it. They slashed it down themselves, and mangled it. The film society is trying to get the uncut version.

The gifted director John Huston made a fine version of "The Red Badge of Courage." The distributors pronounced it "too long," cut it from 104 minutes to 69 minutes, and showed it in a few small houses, where it died.

John Ford was allowed a free hand in making "The Informer." But his next movie had the heart cut out of it.

Hollywood's record has been blighted by the cult of mediocrity, anti-intellectualism and the happy ending. The outlook has brightened somewhat, since television. But there still are many powerful influences at work in Hollywood trying to smother good movies.

And when good movies are made, film exchanges and theatres are often reluctant to handle them. Luckily we have people like the Nixons who are trying to fill the gap.

Bonner Hits Ottawa

B.C. Wants Probe Of Banking, Credit

Attorney-General Robert Bonner yesterday called for a full reappraisal by a royal commission of Canada's banking and credit facilities.

Normal credit facilities are not sufficient to cope with a high level of economic activity, he said in the legislature.

HAMPERED
In 1955-56 and again during the present current economic revival, "we have been hampered by lack of credit and high interest rates."

Mr. Bonner said the fear of inflation is blinding Ottawa to the legitimate needs of the economy. Refusal to expand the money supply will seriously affect the pace of economic development.

B.C. HIT
British Columbia was hit more heavily than any other part of Canada in the recent recession, and B.C.'s recovery has not been as fast as it should have been because of the lack of investment money and high interest rates, Mr. Bonner said.

High interest rates have encouraged the buying of short-term Canadian bonds by U.S., Swiss and other European interests.

BBC Offers Reds Variety
LONDON (UPI)—Soviet listeners will get a broad diet of western-style broadcasting, from political commentaries to rock 'n' roll music, now that the Kremlin has decided to stop jamming the British Broadcasting Corporation.

"We will try to portray all aspects of life in the West because everything indicates that the Russian people have an insatiable curiosity about it," a BBC spokesman said yesterday.

Trading Stamp Attack Turned Aside in House

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF got nowhere Thursday in a bid for a free Commons vote on trading stamps.

The call came from Frank Howard, MP for Skeena, who attacked trading stamps as "economic punishment inflicted on a defenceless consumer."

He said even the major chain stores want to get off "the cancerous merry-go-round" of stamp competition.

However, he no sooner took his seat than Harry Jones (PC, Saskatoon) recalled Justice Minister Fulton's policy statement last fall that regulating merchandising devices is purely a provincial responsibility.

The trading stamps debate echoed in a chamber occupied at times by only about 50 of the Commons' 264 members.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced that a meeting of federal and provincial representatives will be held here Monday to start planning for the 1967 celebration of Canada's 100th anniversary of Confederation.

Tisdalle 'MLA For Sandwich'

John Tisdalle (SC, Saanich) briefly became "the honorable member from Sandwich" in the House yesterday.

Mrs. Lois Haggen (CCF, Grand Forks - Greenwood) made the slip but recovered quickly and explained: "He made me think of a sandwich last night with all the display he had."

Cartons and containers were used by Mr. Tisdalle to illustrate his speech on milk packaging.

The provincial mines department will auction off some 204,586 acres for natural gas and oil permits, drilling reserves and leases at 10 a.m. March 17. The sale is expected to net about $2,000,000.

The permits are in the Fort Nelson area and one is 45 miles from Ketchikan Lake where what is believed one of the world's largest natural gas strikes was made.

Recognition of 1962 as the centennial of Barkerville, complete with a cabinet meeting in the historic B.C. town, was suggested yesterday by W. C. Speare (SC, Cariboo).

Deputy-Speaker A. S. Matthews (SC, Vancouver Centre) went to bat for the pensioners of the province yesterday and called for major changes to better their lot—pensioners to ride buses free of charge or on a reduced rate; removal of ambulance charges; amendment of the municipal act to make property owned by senior citizens' organizations tax free; action on the urgent problem of building hospitals for chronic care, and meals up to $1.50 allowed tax free.

So much attention is being focused on the north that the interior of British Columbia is being overlooked, Mrs. Haggen said.

The Throne Speech "confirmed my fears that the interior of the province, the so-called hinterland, is going to be by-passed. All eyes are on the north."

$13,000,000 More

Tax Rental Boost No Surprise Here

Announcement in Ottawa yesterday that B.C. will get almost $13,000,000 more than estimated under the federal-provincial tax rental agreement in 1960-61 is no surprise, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said last night.

B.C. will get $71,975,000 compared to an originally estimated return of $64,900,000.

Mr. Bonner said operation of the tax rental plan is almost automatic in effect and amounts receivable are closely predictable by all provincial government finance officials.

"The Ottawa announcement is therefore no surprise," he said. "British Columbia is getting nothing it has not already bargained for—in this case several years ago."

Total to all provinces is $536,400,000.

It Didn't Bite Back

Man Bites Dog—Police Dog

LONDON (AP) — The judge couldn't do a thing to Sam Wilson for biting a dozing police dog in the station house, but he gave him six months in jail Thursday for assaulting two constables.

It all started when Wilson, 29, was arrested at his sister's house for creating a disturbance. He battled the constables who finally got him to the Harrow Road police station. They put him in a cell to cool off. Later they started removing him to the desk sergeant's office to be booked. What happened then was described by Sgt. Bernard Williams in court Thursday.

"The police dog was lying down in the cell passage, taking no part in the proceedings at all.

"Wilson jumped straddle-legged across the dog, sat on its back, seized its ears and sank his teeth into the dog's neck.

"To the dog's credit, it did not retaliate." The judge could find no charge in the book for biting a police dog while it was sleeping—in this case a five-year-old Alsatian named Laddy.

Fabulous Diamond Found

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—A traveller stopped off at North America's only diamond mine, the crater of diamonds near Murfreesboro, to seek a gem for his fiancée's engagement ring.

Niels Bach, 25, of Ludington, Mich., found a 6.42-carat beauty in the rough, after paying a $1.50 fee for the right to hunt through the crater.

FLAWLESS The crater used to be mined commercially, but operations shut down years ago.

Howard Millar, who owns the tourist attraction, said Bach's find was a flawless gem and estimated it will cut to a 3 1/2-carat stone worth $6,000.

Bach was on his way to San Bernardino, Calif., to visit his fiancée, Carlyne Mengen.

The trouble with Dorf is that his hair is falling out and he's lost his appetite.

Williams, an amateur rock collector, said it was because Dorf ate some refined uranium concentrate ore that Williams brought back from New Mexico last week.

"He's not bald by any means," Williams said, "but he's losing his hair."

The abacus, the first, and some still say the fastest of adding machines—is an early measure of progress—and thus a symbol. The triangle is Grant's own symbol of mathematical, almost astronomical, growth. Back in 1887, William Grant and his sons built their own distillery, with their own hands, in the Scottish Highlands. Now, the family firm owns and directs two of the largest malt distilleries in all Scotland.

Symphony's Thorny Road

WHEN the current symphony season is over, representatives of the provincial and civic governments and of business and professional groups will be invited by the Victoria Symphony Society to attend a conference on the financial problems of Greater Victoria's chief musical asset. The holding of such a discussion is wise and necessary. From its very beginnings the society has functioned in a state of perpetual crisis; each season has added to the cost of presenting the orchestra, without commensurate increase in assured income. The Victoria orchestra is not unique in this respect. In fact, it would be unique if the financial situation were otherwise.

No organization, least of all a non-profit, semi-public one functioning for the good of the community, should be expected to remain forever beholden to the vagaries and uncertainties of civic and individual charity. The Victoria Symphony Society and its orchestra are acknowledged as valuable and indispensable to the cultural amenities of the capital region, enhancing its prestige and to a substantial degree that of the province as well.

Although struggle stimulates development, the struggle should not be as unequal as that besetting the society. Nor should a few private well-wishers and music-lovers, by no means all of them wealthy or even comfortably off, be left to carry a load which should be more fairly distributed over the community. If asked, a majority of the people undoubtedly would say that the symphony orchestra is something which should be preserved; that being so, it is entitled to a larger measure of stability.

The conference at the season's end will permit the society to show those whose concern this is, or should be, why symphony can never pay its own way and must be afforded some means of covering its annual deficits or fade out of existence. The direct benefits derived from a symphony orchestra go to those who attend the concerts; the indirect benefits are incalculable in the way that the fruits of all branches of education and cultural uplift are incalculable.

Sharing the Knowledge

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has suggested that the U.S. should share more of its nuclear secrets with its close allies and permit them control of warheads located in their countries. He could see no sense, the president said, in treating trusted associates as junior partners of the firm. With respect to atomic matters this is more or less the position of Canada, Great Britain and others.

Unfortunately the president does not have the final say, which rests with the U.S. Congress. The latter has always been sticky about sharing such knowledge or about loosening the inhibition forced on its allies in the stockpiling of atomic weapons. Congress is likely to be reluctant to relax its attitude and allow the president to be the sole arbiter. Seemingly it does not trust its friends as he is prepared to do.

It was a peculiar development that followed the evolution of the first atomic bomb. This came into being through the joint efforts of British and American scientists and the pooling of knowledge and experiment. One might have expected such a close liaison to continue, but since the war the U.S. has hugged to its own breast all its further atomic secrets. This is scarcely a course calculated to cement a postwar alliance, and it has been a bugbear in allied relations. President de Gaulle for one preferred to do without American atomic weapons on French soil because the U.S. put strings on their control.

It certainly seems strange that the "junior" members of the allied team should be deprived of nuclear knowledge which, President Eisenhower added, the potential enemy already had. This seems to be carrying security to an absurd length, and it needlessly rubs home the dependence of America's allies on the U.S. Cordial relations do not tend to flourish in such an atmosphere.

The problem involves Canada directly because of the Bomarc stations which are to be located in this country, and the vexed question of control of their warheads. In the wider sense Canada at least, because of its geographical position and the interdependence implicit in North American defence, should be allowed to share American nuclear knowledge to a much greater extent if the two countries are to be real allies standing shoulder to shoulder.

It's a Lot of Money

ESTIMATED expenditures of $6,330,168,920 in the coming fiscal year were laid before parliament yesterday by Finance Minister Fleming in the customary pre-budget statement of anticipated outgo. Although that is the largest bill to be laid before the nation in any fiscal year, it comes within $70,618,873 of the estimates of the current year for all national purposes. Against this rise in anticipated outlay there is a reduction of $98,921,740 in expenditures for defence purposes; while some of the rising costs on ordinary account are attributable to social service and other statutory provisions. Mr. Fleming seems to have contained the increase to moderate levels.

Supplementary estimates and a report on the deficit expected from the closing fiscal year remain to be weighed. If the deficit is substantially less than was originally indicated when the year opened—and government sources have been hinting this for some time—that could help the minister of finance materially as he prepares to find the means of covering federal expenditures for 1960-61. A larger turnover in Canadian business during much of 1959 and early this year, together with the increased rates of taxation in the same period, may have their own contributions to make towards that.

In any circumstances, however, $6,330,000,000 is a considerable sum of money to find for civil needs, defence and other national purposes in a peacetime year. The growth of Canada in population, its need of development, the uneasy and still armed state of the world, and the rising cost in national outlays for welfare and unavoidable purposes no doubt all had their part in the summation. It is Mr. Fleming's budget, with its taxation provisions, which will attract the attention of the nation now.

Interpreting the News

Macmillan Tour Praised

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP). With a few days remaining in Prime Minister Macmillan's month-long African tour, even his critics are cautiously hinting that his performance has been at least a qualified success.

The prime minister's safari to Ghana, Nigeria, the Central African Federation and the Union of South Africa, with short side trips to adjacent British colonies, has been both a social and a diplomatic occasion. Private talks with political leaders have been sandwiched into a heavy round of public appearances, often resembling the schedule of a royal tour.

Some commentators have noted, rather wryly, that the resemblance has been heightened by the quality of some of Macmillan's public speeches. But the prime minister has been travelling through territory where considerable delicacy is required.

In newly independent Ghana he was offered ample evidence of the growth of African nationalism and, in the interest of its adherents in events beyond their own borders. The crowds showed themselves equally warm in welcoming their visitor and in urging him to speed the emancipation of Negroes in territory still under British rule.

Both in Ghana and in Nigeria, the prime minister's next port of call, he was met by demonstrators calling for the release of Dr. Hastings Banda, the Nyasaland nationalist leader, and expressing apprehension over Britain's plans for the Central African Federation.

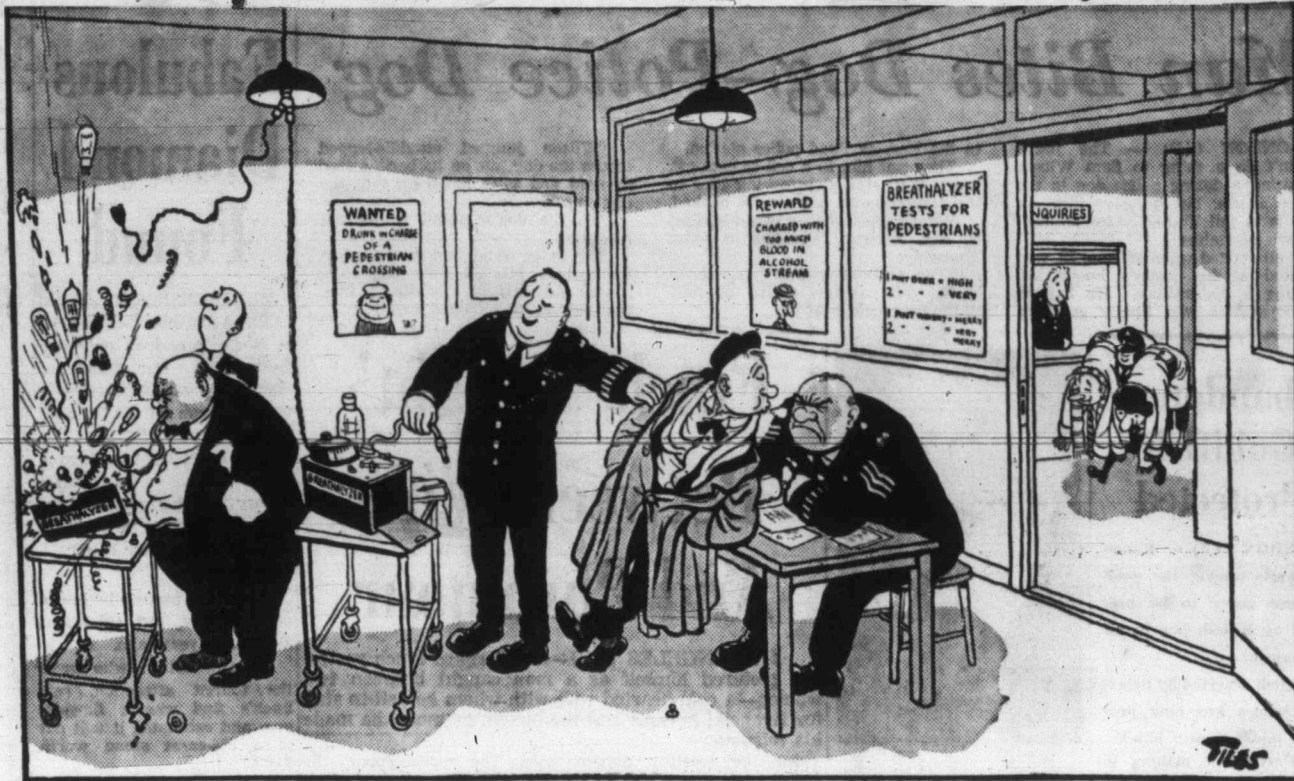

It was in Nigeria, still a few months short of achieving its own independence, that Macmillan sought to allay the fears of white domination in Central Africa. In a speech at Lagos, he said Britain will retain control over Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia until their peoples express the wish to unite with Southern Rhodesia in an independent Federation.

Macmillan's visit to Nyasaland was marred by a disturbance for which several British reporters blamed the over-zealousness of police in breaking up a nationalist demonstration.

His stay in South Africa is, in some respects, regarded as the most ticklish of all.

THOSE who watched and listened to Mr. Tom Mboya on the small silver screen recently would appreciate something of the quality of native political leadership emerging in the Dark Continent.

Perfect diction and linguistic polish can be superficial, but the Kenya colony representative displayed a resilience that bespoke a live and searching mind. He was easily the equal of his white-skinned interlocutors.

He was courtesy personified in addition, yet there was a hint of steel in his quiet affirmation that when independence comes to Kenya the white settlers would receive the same treatment as native sons; "no less but no more."

Nor, he indicated, would future white immigrants be allowed to co-opt Kenya territory by settling on it. And independence for Kenya is not far away.

It is easy for us in Canada to view developments in Africa with insufficient understanding of the position of white settlers. The morality of the slogan "freedom and equality" is not to be denied, but these white citizens of Africa have been there for generations and have some cause for apprehension should the ruling power pass into native hands.

We have nothing to fear from the small minority of real native sons in Canada—they will never outnumber us—but this very fact should temper our criticisms; induce us at least not to be unctious.

Yet the legitimate aspirations in differing African states for self-government cannot be set aside, nor should they be. Color of skin has nothing to do with the dignity of man as such, or his right to mastery of his own national affairs.

What we are witnessing, in Africa and elsewhere, is one of the great movements of history, the upsurge of peoples for self-determination; motivated by precisely the sentiments that created the existing white nations of today. It is a greater portent for the future than Communism or any other ideology.

Nor is to be retarded by any superior assumption that some of the peoples concerned are not ready for self-government.

The superiority of the white man has in any case been diminished in recent decades, and native peoples irrespective of color shade have come to realize they need not feel inferior in brains or powers of accomplishment if given the opportunity to improve their lot.

And cardinal to that opportunity is political freedom.

They may remember also as a spur to their aspirations the brown and yellow civilizations which preceded those of some white-skinned nations, even if these later disappeared into the limbo of lost things.

In so far as Africa is concerned, likely enough within the next ten years or sooner all except the small protectorates of that continent will be masters of their own political destinies.

The handwriting of this progression is on the wall and it is a fact which should be accepted and given a helping hand if animosities are not to linger to the eventual disadvantage of the white nations.

One would hope that such home rule would be accompanied by good will towards those of white skins in overwhelmingly dark-skinned populations, for it is they who have developed these lands to the point of self-sufficiency in the modern world.

But this will depend on the grace with which self-government is conceded.

Resolutions Not Enough

Prejudice Must Be Rooted Out

By PETER COUROPOULOS, from United Nations

THE discussions of the Subcommission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities started when the anti-Semitic flare-up was at its peak and ended when the Algerian insurrection reached its critical point.

What is almost incredible about these outbursts of hatred or violence is that they were prompted by prejudices constituting an anachronism. Pointedly, the main concern of the subcommission was the eradication of these same prejudices.

Racial or religious fanaticism could be dismissed as inconsequential if the flare-ups were isolated and considered by everybody else as mere acts of mentally disturbed individuals. But the reaction of world opinion to the wave of anti-Semitism and the blow dealt to the French state by the insurgents show that this is not so.

Once such emotions are left free to run their course, they have a tendency to reflect and disseminate throughout the world. They create unsuspected developments, because they emanate from ignorant people. Neither the Algerian insurgents nor the anti-Semites can be looked upon as people aware of the realities surrounding them.

It may appear as a paradox but it is a fact that despite the tremendous development of communication media, ignorance and prejudice are strong and widespread. As the subcommission pointed out in one of its resolutions, the most effective way of combating prejudices is through educational efforts on an international scale.

The subcommission, which is a subsidiary body of the Commission on Human Rights, discussed and condemned the recent manifestations of anti-Semitism and other forms of racial or religious prejudices. Also, it approved unanimously a set of principles for the promotion of freedom of thought, conscience and religion.

These were some of the principles adopted:

here, or not to adhere, to a religion or belief, in accordance with the dictates of his conscience.

* Parents or legal guardians shall have the prior right to decide upon the religion or belief in which their child shall be brought up.

* No one shall be subjected to material or moral coercion likely to impair his freedom to maintain or to change his religion or belief.

* Anyone professing any religious or non-religious belief shall be free to do so openly without suffering any discrimination on account of his religion or belief.

* The members of a religion or belief shall not be prevented from acquiring or producing all materials and objects necessary for the performance or observance of prescribed rituals or practices.

* Where the government controls the means of production and distribution, it shall make such materials or objects, or the means of producing them, available to the members of the religion or belief concerned.

During the discussion of race prejudice, the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization came into the picture. Its activities are considered valuable in eradicating discrimination and prejudice on race, religion, sex or social and economic status.

Dr. Matta Akrawi, head of the organization's New York office, outlined the work undertaken in this field.

He mentioned the studies conducted by UNESCO on the problems of race. Booklets were published, he said, on the general subject "The Race Question and Modern Science." Another series of books examined the race question in the light of religious thought.

He also announced that an international seminar will be held on educational techniques for combating discrimination and prejudice and promoting understanding between different groups.

Judge Philip Halpern of the United States, together with three other members of the subcommission, proposed a draft resolution condemning the wave of anti-Semitic manifestations.

The adopted resolution requested the Commission on Human Rights to urge member states of the UN to "take all appropriate action to prevent and punish such acts." Public authorities should also be called upon to intensify educational programs

"designed to eradicate the racist views and the prejudices in these manifestations."

An official document containing an East German memorandum was circulated in the course of proceedings. It charged the West German government as responsible for the outbreak of anti-Semitism. It contained such statements as this:

"More than one thousand military and quasi-military organizations aim at a revival of the traditions of the nazi Wehrmacht and of chauvinism and revanchism."

Or "cabinet ministers of the federal government take part in these organizations and the government gives them political and financial aid."

Be it as it may, it was evident that more than the subject of anti-Semitism was involved in this affair.

The session of this UN subcommission was productive. The discussions it held and the resolutions it adopted were opportune. But they will remain insignificant pieces of paper if they are not adopted by the responsible authorities and the individual citizens at large.

Racial and religious prejudices can only be eradicated at their source. It is in the daily-lives of people, in the families, in business, in the communication media throughout the world that prejudice has to give way to understanding.

If discrimination is not eradicated in these places, then all the principles contained in resolutions or in UNESCO books will be in vain. They will remain what they are still today: dreams of impractical dogooders. Principles are usually fine; it is their practice that leaves much to desire.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ONE of my musical friends was attempting to cure me of my complete misapprehension of jazz. It appears I cannot get it through my head that there is a classical field of jazz which I constantly confuse with pop music, rock 'n' roll and other musical manifestations of our time. He asserts that I have no more right to discuss jazz than I have to discuss nuclear fission, a subject of which I know and understand nothing.

"Sound," he says, "is one of the senses by which we live. And in recent years, less than half the century, there has been a greater change and increase in sound than in the previous entire history of man. Our minds are therefore constantly attempting to adapt themselves to, and to appreciate and evaluate all the new sound on earth, that are due to the technological, industrial and mechanical revolutions of our time. Jazz is one of those fields of inquiry, of speculation, in relation to our newly enlarged consciousness of sound."

Seeing my stupid expression, he said:

"Do you know why cowboys sing those high, whining, mournful songs? Because of the coyotes. Unconsciously, they are imitating the howl of the coyote. In his musical expression man is affected by the sounds of his surroundings. Jazz is an effort to express, in art, a response to the marvellous new sounds of modern human society."

"Anyway, I like that bit about coyotes and cowboys."

Man Among the Predators

(From The Edmonton Journal)

CARNIVOROUS or flesh-eating animals have acquired a bad name. Men call them predators or marauders, and class them generally as "fair game" for anyone with a gun, though man, himself, is by far the greatest flesh-eater on the face of the earth.

When a flesh-eating animal is caught "off base" in the bush or found trespassing in an inhabited region, it is nearly always killed; and the general habit of citizens is to condone this action, tacitly if not explicitly.

Is the bad name deserved and is the thoughtless killing of so-called predators justified? A predator is defined as an animal which preys on other animals. Why does man, who preys on other animals, regard this natural pursuit of food by wild animals as something wrong, justifying the death penalty?

There is not an animal on the face of the earth which does not live off some other form of life; yet we place those which live off other mammals or birds, even in part, in a criminal class, and those which live off plants or insects among the innocents.

Perhaps these common attitudes have been inherited from our ancestors, who had to fight for survival against the flesh-eaters but could get meat from the grass-eaters. Whatever their origin, our attitudes and habits need to be changed.

Trapping fur-bearers is a business. Animal populations, which are carrying rabies have to be cut down. Self-defence always is justified and there are other times when killing a flesh-eating animal appears justified. But the needless destruction of such animals when they are doing no particular harm but merely following their way of life, when they are known to be controllers of rodents which we regard as pests, is surely senseless.

Unless we stop the thoughtless practice of killing any animal that has sharp teeth and claws or any bird that has a beak for rending flesh, we shall in company with their natural enemies, wipe them out.

The loss to agriculture will be great but that is not the only point. Having become the dominant form of life on earth, man has some responsibility for other species and other orders of life. We recognized this responsibility, though belatedly, in the case of the grazing buffalo and the whooping crane; we should recognize it in respect to the predators.

Gutter Methods

An item in the Colonist of Feb. 3 tells of UBC students pelting Tim Buck with orange peel when he attempted to address them recently. I recall a similar episode when Mr. Bennett spoke at the university.

Are these our future diplomats? Is this our hope for the future, that whenever they meet with a policy with which they disagree they will resort to methods developed in the gutter?

I would presume that these students are the cream of the high school graduates, and that their minds are being trained to grapple with the tremendous problems of the future; yet they can find no intelligent questions, no grounds for general discussion, and presumably no food for thought when listening to the leaders of groups within our population.

Do we really need a university in Victoria?

Not Fine or Fun

Will you kindly let me use a little valuable space to express my point of view regarding the Friday evening parking meters?

As usual when a candidate for office speaks, we the public listen and vote. Once in office the elected official feels that he must do something to show that he really did something or to make headlines. But in this case there was no promise of parking meters on Friday night. I think this is the silliest proposition. For the proponent it may be fine, but when comes to the detriment of the public and business, it is not fine or fun!

I think it is silly to keep a store open on Friday night, but if it is of convenience for the shoppers and public in general, that is alright, even when the cost of operating is more than the profit, as long as there are people on the street the merchant will keep open. Now the proposal of parking meters on Friday night comes up. That is a fine way to chase people out of the city especially when there are so many outside shopping centres with ample space to park.

I think the so-called City Fathers would be better to stop, think and propose something that the public appreciates more than the parking meters.

Sin for a Season

The article in the Colonist of Feb. 2 regarding the young Bristol girl who resigned from the Band of Hope because she had started drinking and liked it was deserving of front-page headlines.

This tragedy is typical of youth today, enjoying the pleasures of sin for a season.

No devil on skid read ever intended to be anything but a moderate drinker; but found out too late that the chain of habit is too weak to be felt until too strong to be broken.

Sir James Douglas was a very important man in the history of Vancouver Island. Douglas Street ends where Patricia Bay Highway commences.

Patricia Bay Highway does not touch Patricia Bay, nor does it touch Sidney village. Should it be re-named Swartz Bay Highway or Douglas Boulevard?

It appears to me that Douglas Boulevard or Drive would be the better name, especially if it is lined with silver birches (weeping willows, or dogwood trees might do in places where the graceful birches will not grow).

Miller Said 'I'm In for Murder'
Ex-Jailmate Testifies at Trial

NANAIMO—A fellow-prisoner at Oakalla thought Leland Eugene Miller, a 33-year-old Victoria man, was joking when he told him that he was "in for murdering his wife."

"I asked him if he wasn't in for murdering his mother-in-law and I started to laugh," said prosecution witness Edward Michael McCabe.

McCabe was giving evidence at Miller's trial yesterday for murder. Miller is accused of slaying his common-law wife, Mrs. Dorothy Frances Dwyve-jonck on the night of April 2, 1957.

'LITTLE MEN'
Miller's brother, Alvin, and his sister, Mrs. Norma Godfrey, both testified yesterday that Miller had told them of "little men in black suits" who had been following him.

Miller, they said, visited them both at their respective houses the night of the slaying.

Mrs. Godfrey said Miller had asked her if she thought people could read other people's minds.

Massive Vancouver Island Cat Hunt
Catching Abandoned Pets for Years

A massive cat hunt has been going on for years, but few residents of Vancouver Island know of the search taking place all around them. The hunters are volunteer workers, members of various humane societies; the prey are cats—hundreds of cats turned loose by families too ignorant or callous to phone the proper societies when they want to rid themselves of a pet.

Information from the Cats' Protection League, SPCA and the Saanich Pound adds up to a pathetic report. Hundreds of unwanted cats are trapped (without harming the animals) each year. Some are starving, some sick, others mutilated by hoodlums. They are placed in responsible homes if possible, otherwise destroyed.

These are animals tossed out to fend for themselves. Many of them were kittens purchased as pets for small children, before the children have advanced past the animal stage themselves. There have been cases of kittens having their legs broken, or being dashed playfully against a wall until unconscious. As soon as the novelty fades, they are turned loose to find food or die, with a resulting loss of bird life.

The situation on Vancouver Island is growing serious, according to the Cats' Protection League and the SPCA, who urge that people wishing to get rid of their cats phone them.

That way, they have a chance.

A start on construction of a new Patricia Bay Airport terminal will be possible this year under a $12,252,353 "planning account" item in the 1960-61 federal estimates, a transport department official said yesterday.

But earlier word from Ottawa indicated no plans to start a runway extension project in 1960.

"I would like to see them both get started—they've been stalling on the terminal and the runways," Victoria Chamber of Commerce president W. A. Pendray said last night.

"The government doesn't seem to want to give any satisfaction—they've forgotten the west entirely," he said.

Bond Yields Rise Far Above Stocks

By HARRY YOUNG

Yields on corporation bonds are running 4½ per cent and three per cent higher than those on the common stocks of the same or allied companies. Investment dealers say this is the financial enigma of the start of the "sizzling '60s."

Deacon and Co. of Toronto have made a list of eight Canadian companies of sound reputation which have public issues of bonds and stocks. The difference in the yields in the two categories is shown below:

BONDS AND DEBS	Yield %
Alcan 4½/77	5.88
B.A. Oil 3¼/77	6.17
Canadian Oil 4/76	6.13
Consumers Gas 4½/75	6.41
Lehman L. Prov 6½/75	6.77
Salada-S-H 6/77	6.15
Simpson-Sears 6½/80	6.37

COMMON STOCKS	Yield %
Aluminium Ltd.	1.55
B.A. Oil	3.06
Canadian Oil	3.42
Consumers Gas	2.78
Lehman Co. A	1.65
Salada-S-H	2.30
Simpsons Ltd.	2.27

While the yields do not make allowance for dividend tax credits on common stocks, the comparison indicates that the benefits at the moment are loaded heavily in favor of the bond holder.

After dropping last week to a 10-month low, the Bank of Canada discount rate took an upward turn again yesterday. The rate was set at 5.01 per cent, up .16 per cent from the previous week's 4.85 per cent.

It had been below the five per cent mark for the past two weeks and it was the first upward turn since Jan. 7.

LOSS INTO GAIN

Columbia Cellulose, which operates the pulp mill near Prince Rupert, turned a 1958 loss of $409,502 into a net profit of $2,904,768 in 1959 after making provision of $3,172,902 for depreciation and non-cash items.

GAS SALES DOUBLED

Inland Natural Gas sales were up 121 per cent in the first six months of the fiscal year starting July 1, according to John N. McMahon, president.

STOCK SPLITS COMING

Shareholders of two prominent Canadian companies are to be asked to give their approval to stock splits at forthcoming annual meetings. They are International Nickel, who are proposing a two-for-one split, and The Southam Co. Ltd. who are proposing a four-for-one split.

BANKER VISITS

R. D. Mulholland, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, is to visit Victoria Feb. 23. Mr. Mulholland was manager of the Victoria branch on Douglas Street in the early 1950s.

MILL PURCHASED

Viola Mac Mines Ltd. announces it has purchased a 750-ton-a-day flotation plant for its Kam-Kotia copper-zinc property near Timmins, Ont. Recent discoveries have raised the grade expectation from 1.8 per cent copper as well as increasing the indicated reserves. Production is expected to start in August.

Saanich Loses Test Case

Saanich municipality lost out again yesterday in a test case involving licensing of vehicles delivering fuel oil within the municipality.

In county court, Judge J. B. Clearihue rejected a Saanich appeal against dismissal of a charge against Heaney Cartage and Storage Ltd., accused of delivering fuel oil without a municipal licence.

"QUITE CLEAR" Existing legislation, said Judge Clearihue, made it "quite clear" that the only person who can be licensed or taxed was one having a place of business in the municipality and carrying on business there.

While Heaney's has a depot in Saanich, this was for receiving and shipping of goods into and out of Victoria. It had nothing to do with oil deliveries.

Hot Springs National Park in Arkansas has natural springs producing water as hot as 147 degrees.

The Courtroom Parade

Black, White Robbed Brown

Wilfred Black and Alfred White, no fixed address, were found guilty of robbery with violence in city police court yesterday.

Black was remanded to today for sentence; White to next Wednesday for probation report and sentence.

The two men were charged with robbing Gordon Brown, 527 Esquimalt Road, of an Indian sweater and $4, in a room at the Station Hotel on Jan. 27. Magistrate William Ostler rejected what he called "the absurd story" told by both accused that Brown traded his sweater for an old jacket belonging to White.

Emil Charity, 882 Canterbury, was fined $250 and had his driver's licence suspended following a plea of guilty to impaired driving earlier this week.

Charity's car struck cyclist Ronald Massey, 15, of 672 McKenzie, early Sunday on Til-licum near Regina. The boy suffered a broken pelvis, and is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

In city court, Robert Arnold Borton, 18, of Work Point, was fined $20 when he pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor.

In Colwood police court, Audrey Penley, 1047 Chamberlain, was fined $200 and costs and had her driver's licence suspended for two months when she pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Costs at New High Despite Arms Slash

OTTAWA (UPI) — Finance Minister Fleming laid before Parliament yesterday a 1960-61 spending program totalling a record $6,330,168,920 despite a $86,921,740 slash in defence spending and cuts in half of the other government departments.

The total included $5,740,168,920 in budgetary expenditures and $590,000,000 for old-age pensions, which are paid out of a special fund. It represents an increase, including old-age pensions, of $70,000,000 over expenditures so far in the current fiscal year ending April 30.

Money for Aid Up $2,500,000

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's foreign aid bill will amount to an estimated $60,967,500 in the 1960-61 fiscal year, up some $2,500,000 from the current level.

Queen Elizabeth's 11 personal representatives in Canada—the governor-general and 10 lieutenant-governors—will cost the taxpayer $131,064—down $580—during the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Universities will get an estimated $488,500 more in federal grants in the new fiscal year—a total of $26,710,000.

The publicly-owned CBC will get more money to meet operating requirements, but less for capital spending. Operating grants were boosted to $62,085,000 from $58,404,000. At the same time, capital provisions were cut by $1,550,000 to $7,647,000.

Canada plans to spend $41,653,255 on its atomic energy program, up $9,560,955.

More than $600,000 will be spent on the body responsible for maintaining government event of a nuclear war. Last year it was $175,000.

Special federal aid of about $3,500,000 for the Nova Scotia coal industry will be continued for a second year.

In an effort to balance the budget for the first time since the Conservatives took office 2½ years ago, expenditures were slashed in all major fields of military activity to leave the defence department with a proposed budget of $1,593,272,266.

The cuts, which averaged five per cent, still left defence as the biggest spending department, taking 28 cents out of every dollar spent by the government.

Other departments whose spending was trimmed included public works, down $30,166,445 from the current year, and transport, down $17,127,666.

But left untouched, and in some cases increased, was spending related to national development. Mr. Fleming singled out for special mention atomic energy, exploration and scientific research and communication.

All told, Mr. Fleming cut statutory spending by $164,900,000. But the fixed expenditures like welfare payments over which Parliament has no control more than ate up the savings.

An increase of $94,300,000 in public debt charges alone cancelled out all the cuts in the defence department. Debt charges were raised to $774,400,000 for 1960-61 as a result of higher interest rates on government borrowings and an increased national debt.

No Sign of Big Raise In Civil Service Figures

OTTAWA (CP) — Civil servants clamoring for a general pay increase got no particular encouragement from 1960-61 spending estimates of the federal government tabled in the Commons Thursday.

They showed an increase of $17,600,000 in the amount for government workers' salaries, nowhere near the average 10-per-cent boost recommended last fall by the civil service commission and turned down by the cabinet.

If the estimates come out right, government officials will do more telephoning, less letter writing and exactly the same amount of travel.

The phone and telegraph estimates are up from $19,600,000 to $22,100,000, and postage down $100,000 from $6,000,000.

Travel expenses remain unchanged at $67,100,000.

The government has apparently given up hope for a NATO food bank.

A $10,000,000 appropriation for it last year has been dropped.

New estimates contain $500,000 for a Commonwealth scholarship plan and $100,000 for malaria eradication by the World Health Organization.

Art Budget Increased Six-Fold

OTTAWA (CP) — A six-fold increase to $150,000 in the National Gallery's fund for buying art works was shown in the 1960-61 estimates tabled in the Commons.

These amounts are listed aside from all other gallery expenditure estimates, which for 1960-61 are increased to $929,145 from $889,640.

Excited Cubans Greet Mikoyan On 'Closeup' Tour

HAVANA — Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier and trade expert, arrived Thursday for a closeup look at revolutionary Cuba. Premier Fidel Castro was on hand to greet him. A small but excited crowd gave the Russian leader an almost crushing reception.

BUENOS AIRES — Humberto L. Bulacio, whose policy toward women was simple—"treat 'em rough"—is in hospital with burns received when a girl friend he had beaten up poured alcohol over him while he slept and set him on fire.

GENEVA — Pierre Jaccoud, one of Switzerland's most prominent attorneys, was convicted of murdering the father of a rival for his mistress. He was sentenced to seven years in prison and loss of civil rights for 10 years for shooting and stabbing Charles Zumbach, 62, whom he never had met.

CAPETOWN — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan spent part of his last full day in South Africa sampling the sherry which British trade unionists would like him to boycott, at Groot Constantia, the oldest winery in the Cape.

WARFIELD, B.C. — Commissioner C. E. Fenton has suggested licence fees should be cut in half for smaller dogs because they are incapable of upsetting garbage cans.

MONTREAL — Opposition Leader Lester Pearson last night called for increased membership in the United Nations Security Council including Afro-Asian representation to prevent a decline in the effectiveness of the world body.

NEW YORK — Andre Porumbanu, 35, suitor of heiress Gamble Benedict, was sued for separation yesterday by his wife, who accused him of "brazenly carrying on an affair" with the 19-year-old heiress.

NEW YORK — An angry magistrate Wednesday held 16-year-old David Campanella for trial on a petty larceny charge, saying the stepson of former baseball star Roy Campanella deserves "whatever he gets." It was his third arrest in less than a year.

VANCOUVER — George Frederick Harris, who two years ago celebrated his centennial along with the province, will be 102 Friday. Most of his pleasure now comes from reading, but he hardly ever uses his glasses—which puts him ahead of his six children still living and sets an example for 15 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

CALGARY — Movie and TV cowboy star Roy Rogers will star at the annual exhibition and stampede at Calgary this year, with Dale Evans and their complete troupe, which includes the Sons of the Pioneers.

OTTAWA — Mayor George Neilson got approval from board of control to head a civic delegation to Moscow in June. A Moscow delegation would be invited to visit Ottawa in return.

MILWAUKEE — Carl Suokow pleaded innocent to a speeding charge because he said he was on a death call when arrested. "Are you a doctor?" asked the judge. "No, I'm an embalmer." "Then there's no hurry," the judge said, fining him $25.

WASHINGTON — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former army head, expressed belief that Russia will have military superiority starting next year.

School Bonds Approved

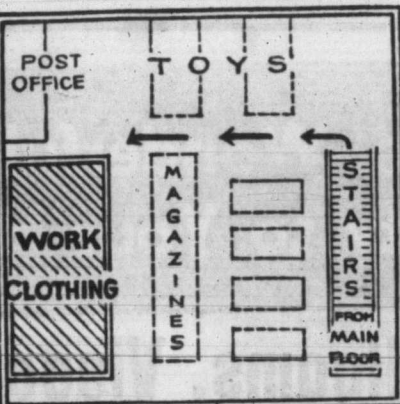

The provincial cabinet this week gave approval for issuance of more than $1,000,000 in school board debentures—including $440,000 for Greater Victoria, and $180,000 for Courtenay.

Throat Cut

Captain, Mate, Crew

Holding daughter, Anna, whose imminent arrival brought him winging home from Japan, Capt. Harley Blagborne of Victoria tug Sudbury II, says he would sooner do his pacing on the bridge of his command than on floor of maternity ward waiting room. His wife, Ann, takes the arrival of their first child with the same capable serenity which has made her husband a famous salvage skipper. (Colonist photo.)

Senseless Say RCMP

The butchered body of a seven-month-old Hereford bull, missing since Monday, was found yesterday in John Dean Park near Sidney.

It was the second time in less than a month that animals have been savagely slaughtered in this area.

A peacock was killed and a crane maimed in the deer pen at Beacon Hill Park in the latter part of January.

Sidney RCMP said the animal's throat had been cut and one hindquarter removed. They estimated the bull's weight at 300 to 400 pounds.

RCMP Cpl. William Stanton said the theft and slaughter was one of the most ridiculous and senseless he had seen. It appeared the bull had been killed for one piece of beef and the rest left to rot.

Last fall, white feathers found beside a pond in Beacon Hill Park were all that remained of a swan which disappeared. About a year ago, a deer was slaughtered in the same park.

Police Probe $250 Theft

Oak Bay police are investigating theft of about $250 from the home of Leonard Duncan, 2046 Lansdowne Road. Thieves broke into the home between 8 and 11 p.m. Wednesday through a rear window, police said. Red and green colored plastic wallets were taken along with the money which included a United States $2 bill.

Tug Skipper Says:

Make It a Big One —Or Don't Gamble

By TERRY HAMMOND

If you're going to take a gamble—take a big gamble. That's the advice of Captain Harley Blagborne who gambled a deepsea tug, two freighters and the lives of 20 men against the annihilating force of a western Pacific typhoon—and won.

Later today when his tug Sudbury II steams into Victoria harbor, she will show only one tiny blemish (a bent cleat) as evidence of an epic six-month cruise which saw her weather two typhoons, deliver four freighters and an aircraft carrier to Japanese breaking yards, and refloat a stranded British freighter.

FLEW BACK

Capt. Blagborne preceded his ship back to Victoria from Japan so he could be present for the birth of his first child, a daughter, Anna.

From an unseamlike lounge chair in his home at 3148 Westdowne last night he said he would sooner face a typhoon than play the role of an expectant father.

"The typhoon is easier to handle because you know what to do—with a daughter about to be born you're sort of stuck."

Capt. Blagborne took his big gamble after he lost a deadly game of blind-man's-buff with two raging typhoons north of Okinawa.

With the far-away gaze of a man who makes big decisions—alone—the captain explained, "You just go and sit quietly and size things up and ask yourself, 'How much can I take before I've had it?'"

Moment Of Big Decision

"Of course I'd thought it all over while we were dodging the storms and I was pretty well convinced that we could get through.

"If you're going to ride out a typhoon, the one thing you must do is stay away from land—at least 200 to 300 miles for manoeuvrability."

"We had gotten well clear while we were trying to manoeuvre around the storms."

Capt. Blagborne made his decision to keep the two freighters in tow and headed into the most violent part of the typhoon with bare steerage-way.

"At this point we had lots of time—time means nothing as long as you save the tow and don't get yourself damaged.

"The main thing I worried about was that I didn't want to lose the towline—I knew if those ships got together they would smash themselves to pieces."

"OUT OF SIGHT" "The waves were high—I don't know how high but the Libertys went right out of sight when they were in the troughs."

"We were running before the wind and with only enough power on to maintain steerage. I think we must have been doing 12 knots—no two Liberty ships ever went so far so fast."

"It was night when we were in the worst part of the storm and one of our worst problems was trying to keep the Libertys in sight so they wouldn't ride up on us."

"They had lights on them but the air was filled with spray and we couldn't see them."

"We rigged a searchlight but it didn't help much."

because when it is in operation (with the head rotating) it will blow away in winds over 70 miles an hour.

"Our other problem was that the towline was chafing on the stern... we tied it down with another cable so it wouldn't get caught in the wheel (propeller) and we kept three turns around the winch so we could let it in and out a bit so it wouldn't keep chafing in the same place."

"We had to change it every 20 minutes or half an hour."

Winds were so high, the captain said, that it was difficult to stand up without hanging on to something.

"I have a wonderful crew... noboby panics."

"After about six hours we were through the worst of it but it was still very rough."

He said he left most of his navigation work to his first and second mates, Ian Hankins and George Hunter, both of Vancouver.

"They're both good men; they helped a lot."

"UNEVENTFUL" After delivering the two freighters to Japan (delivery of the first was relatively uneventful) Capt. Blagborne took the Sudbury II into the Sea of Japan where, on a "no cure, no pay" basis, he refloated the British freighter Georgedore, which had been grounded through a pilotage error.

Steaming eastwards and homewards, the tug wheeled off course to the aid of the Dutch tug Elbe, which had lost the two aircraft carriers it was towing.

It picked up one of the carriers, and delivered it to Hirao, a shipbreaking port in southern Japan.

Capt. Blagborne caught a train to Tokyo and managed to fly home three days before his daughter was born.

When Sudbury docks today she will be under the command of Capt. Hill Wilson, who brought her back from Japan and picked up a Japan-bound light aircraft carrier in Washington State.

Grade 6 Test a Bit Embarrassing

Parents Try School Exam

No Property Interest At Thetis—Edgelow

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow emphatically denied last night that he has any interest in property which might be affected by the proposed Thetis Lake watershed power-line easement.

"Oh, no!" he said when he was advised that some people were speculating that this might be the case, because he lives nearby. "No, definitely not."

Ald. Edgelow said he had taken the stand he thought was right and stuck to it: that the easement in this "completely remote area" would do no harm and would provide money for development of the area regarded as park, without burdening the city's taxpayers.

"If I was thinking of myself, living where I do, I would like to keep Thetis Lake as wild as all get-out," he said.

ALD. EDELOW... Oh, no!

New Respect for Pupils No Dad or Mom Gets 'A'

By IAN STREET

A group of parents this week spent half an hour scratching their heads over four pages of sample questions given to Grade 6 pupils at Gordon Head School.

About half the 26 parents who wrote the test tallied B grades (between 65 and 79 per cent); no one was good enough to rate an A.

ALL GOOD SPORTS

"They were all good sports," said principal P. D. Parfitt afterwards. "I believe it showed them what their children study and how tests are administered."

Arithmetic was the stumbling block for many parents, even some of those who use figures in their workaday life. They were enlightened by teachers who worked out the deceptively simple problems on a blackboard.

Drummond Taylor, 1708 Ash Road, who has a daughter in Grade 6 at Gordon Head School, is comptroller of Victoria Machinery Depot. Despite a final standing among those with the highest marks, he made a comparatively poor showing in arithmetic.

"I'm embarrassed," said Mr. Taylor. "But it certainly revealed the calibre of knowledge expected of a Grade 6 student today. I'm agreeably surprised my daughter is able to handle the type of questions we were given."

BOYS WIN RESPECT

"I have a good deal more respect for my boys now," said Mrs. N. L. Morgan, 4171 Glendenning, mother of sons in Grades 4 and 6.

"I'd forgotten some things I learned in school," she said, "but I was quite surprised at the questions I was able to answer."

PTA president Mrs. A. E. Newton, 2164 Ferndale, said a survey of members taken earlier in the year showed most were anxious to discover what their children were learning in school and what teaching methods were used.

"We certainly found out what we had forgotten," she said. Her own children, two boys and two girls, are in Grades 2, 4, 5 and 6.

Success of the venture has prompted discussion of further test papers covering work in lower elementary grades. The Grade 6 test papers included such questions as: how many years did the Romans rule in Britain?

"EARTH'S TILT" A sample science question: at what degree is the earth's axis tilted?

Arithmetic questions included: find the average of 6% and 2%.

Rodney Beavan, 4105 Cedar Hill, a lawyer and father of a boy in Grade 2 and a girl in Grade 4, ruefully recalled his service days during the Second World War as an instructor in gunnery mathematics. He added: "Now I'm buffaloes by a simple arithmetic problem."

He said: "It makes you realize just how much a child has to know... probably a good deal more than we give them credit for."

Later over coffee, at the end of the meeting, PTA members were agreed that the experiment was a success and should be repeated in the future.

Views Stated

Forum Group Seeks Facts

A special auditorium committee appointed by Mayor Percy Scurrey set out yesterday to gather as much information as possible on auditoriums in other cities.

At its first meeting, the committee asked City Engineer James Garnett—who it added to its number—to write to cities with auditoriums to ask about size, types of accommodation and methods of operation. It also voted to ask for the file of information gathered by the Chamber of Commerce on the subject.

LABOR MEMBER

Ald. Austin Curtis was elected chairman. The committee also includes Ald. Arthur Dowell, who was absent on a vacation, Audrey St. D. Johnson, W. C. Mearns and Newton Cameron. A letter from the mayor indicated he plans to appoint a member from the Victoria Labor Council.

OPINIONS

Some of the preliminary opinions expressed:

Mrs. Johnson: "I very much favor serving as many of the community's interests as possible. But my experience and observation tells me you can try to serve too many, and end up satisfying nobody."

SLOPING FLOOR

"The main auditorium itself must have a sloping floor. You can't build a satisfactory auditorium with a flat floor. That's what is the matter with most of the school auditoriums."

Ald. Curtis: "I have heard it both ways, that we are missing large conventions because we have no large auditorium, and that we can't have them because we haven't enough hotel space. I think one will bring the other."

LARGER REVENUE

Mr. Mearns: "If we can enlarge the use without destroying the basic things, it will provide greater service to the community—and larger revenue."

Arson Stalls City Police

No progress was reported yesterday by city police in their investigation of the burning Wednesday night of two cars on a used-car lot.

Damage totalled about $1,500 in the blaze, which burned out the two vehicles on the lot of Merlin Motors, 833 Balmoral.

Triple Crash Costs $1,000

Almost $1,000 damage was caused by a three-car collision on Douglas Street at 6:10 p.m. yesterday. No one was injured.

A northbound car driven by Susan J. Mitchell of Sea Bluff Farms stopped to make a left turn onto Ardners Road and was slightly damaged when struck in the rear by a car driven by Ferdinand Tadler, 539 Judah Street.

His car, damaged to the extent of about $100 in the accident, was struck in the rear by a car driven by John A. Middleton, 579 Whiteside Road. Middleton's car received about $800 damage and "just seemed to fall apart," said Saanich police who attended.

Princess Elaine Due for Overhaul

The CPR Victoria-Vancouver ferry Princess Elaine is scheduled to go into drydock at Esquimalt Feb. 12 for annual overhaul. While the Elaine is in drydock the Princess Marguerite will take over the run between here and Vancouver.

Training Cruise

Three Navy Ships Going to Japan

Training cruise of three RCN destroyer escorts, which starts Monday, will take the ships to Hong Kong and Japan, the navy confirmed yesterday.

The Ottawa, Saguenay and St. Laurent will leave Esquimalt at 2 p.m. Monday.

During the 2½-month cruise the ships will take part in anti-submarine exercises with units of the United States Navy, beginning with a two-day exercise off Cape Flattery on the way south.

CONFERENCE

The ships are scheduled to reach Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 14 for a two-day exercise conference with U.S. Navy authorities before heading for Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, where they are scheduled to arrive Feb. 23.

After two days at Pearl Harbor the ships will sail for Japan, stopping at Yokosuka, near Tokyo, March 7 for three days.

Next call will be Okinawa March 16 for two days, and on to Hong Kong, arriving March 21. The destroyer escorts will stay a full week in Hong Kong, sailing March 28 for operations in the Okinawa area from March 31 to April 9. Next stop will be Kobe, Japan, from April 11 to April 14.

The ships will return to home port by way of the Aleutian Islands, stopping in Adak overnight April 21-22 to refuel.

Return to Esquimalt is set for 10 a.m. April 29.

Black to Open Today's Debate

Provincial Secretary and Minister of Municipal Affairs Wesley Black will lead off the Throne Speech debate in the House at 2 p.m. today. Other speakers scheduled are Tom Uphill (Ind., Fernie), Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) and Dan Campbell (SC, Comox).

PERSONAL MENTION

His Honor Frank MacKenzie Ross, the Lieutenant-Governor, will give a dinner at Government House, Monday, Feb. 8, for the deputy ministers of B.C. Lieut.-Cmdr. J. H. Wade will be the ADC in attendance.

Members of the Legislative Press Gallery will be entertained to dinner at Government House, by the Lieutenant-Governor, Tuesday. ADC will be Brig. J. Adam, OBE.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross will attend a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Mitchell in the Georgian Club, Vancouver, Friday, Feb. 12.

On Saturday, Feb. 13, Mrs. F. M. Ross will open the IODE Diamond Jubilee Jamboree at the Club Sirocco, and will attend a coffee party in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, to be given by Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett. Miss Ruth MacLean will accompany Mrs. Ross on both occasions.

Returns to Mainland

Mrs. H. D. Hume of Vancouver who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. L. Sandes here at the Seacroft Apartments, has returned to her home in Vancouver.

IODE Chapter Marks Historical Events

Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, IODE, in keeping with their motto "to keep one hand on the traditions of the past" again marked two historical occasions as they have done since 1912.

A tea was held on March 14 to commemorate the arrival of James Douglas at Clover Point in 1843 and a tea was also held on Nov. 19 to mark the date in 1858 when the Crown Colony of Vancouver Island joined the province of British Columbia.

These facts were disclosed in the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Chapter held yesterday following a luncheon at the home of Mrs. R. L. Brain, 930 Lawndale.

Three adopted schools besides the Sir James Douglas school here were recipients of various gifts and prizes presented by the chapter.

MAIN PROJECT

One of the adopted schools at Lac La Hache was burned during the year and is at present being rebuilt.

The chapter will make this school their main project for the coming year. Books and other supplies will be sent from time to time.

Another of the adopted schools at Billings Bay on Nelson Island has been closed. The remaining one is at Allison Pass on the summit of the Hope-Princeton Highway.

RECEIPTS $413

Total receipts for the year were $413. The money was raised at a rummage sale, tea and other affairs.

The sum of $403 was distributed to the adopted schools, gifts and flowers to the DVA Hospital and donations made to the Eskimo and Cancer funds.

RE-ELECT OFFICERS

All officers were re-elected. They are Mrs. A. Drysdale, regent; Mrs. M. Loughheed, 1st vice-regent; Mrs. B. Parsons, 2nd vice-regent; Mrs. G. A. Vantreight, secretary; Mrs. S. Thomas, treasurer; Mrs. F. T. Smith, educational secretary; Miss M. Walter, standard bearer; and Mrs. A. McAllister, Echoes secretary.

Great Ashayi Elected by Sesame Zuanna

Mrs. Win McKim was installed as great ashayi of Sesame Zuanna No. 121, Ladies of the Orient, in the Odd Fellows Hall recently. Other officers installed were Mrs. Lilian Slater, queen ashayi; Mrs. Connie Scrimshaw, keeper of traditions; Mrs. Alma Archer, keeper of shekels; Mrs. Florence Newham, collector of shekels; Mrs. Lucy Kelsner, oriental guide; Mrs. Alice Brown, captain of degree; Mrs. Thelma Smith, prelate; Mrs. Ina Barnes, past great ashayi; Mrs. Sis Hennessy, executioner; Mrs. Lena Warren, assistant detector. Mrs. E. Ballantine, assistant executioner; Mrs. Elsie Taylor, guard of Zuanna; Mrs. Ada Wilson, syndig; Mrs. Edith McCall, Canadian color bearer; Mrs. Dorothy Brandon, American color bearer; Mrs. Vera Wells, Zuanna color bearer. Mrs. Mabel Fleming, installing deputy supreme ashayi, will be installed herself at the next general meeting, Feb. 16, as detector.

Following the ceremony refreshments were served under the convenship of Mrs. Margaret Forde.

Burns Chili Con Carne

Creamettes MORE TENDER

Inside cookin' with that outdoors flavor!

1. Our CREAMETTES are tender on the outside.

2. Meanwhile, heat a cupful of BURN'S CHILI CON CARNE with beans and a can of TOMATO JUICE in a large skillet.

3. Blend in the cooked CREAMETTES and stir "married" with heated through.

A hot and tasty meal for six or eight. And it's done better when reheated for serving later on.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: As you can see, this letter is being written in Japan. My mother sends me every one of your columns.

I'm 22 and have been in the army for 20 months. When I left for overseas my girl promised to wait for me. We were not officially engaged but we had an understanding. Emily writes three times a week and her letters are wonderful. In every letter she says she loves me and can't wait till we're together again. Last week my kid brother wrote that Emily is very pregnant. His guess is she'll have the baby next month. He said he debated for weeks before he decided to tell me. It will be April before I'll be able to get home and learn the whole story. I think I still love her and want her for my wife. Please help a—MIXED-UP G.I.

Dear Mixed-Up: What do you want—a blueprint? You know the story. The only thing you need to be filled in on is the cast of characters. A girl who would neglect to mention a detail like a baby on the way sounds like pretty poor wife material. Take your time, soldier, and think over carefully the hazards if you marry a girl with this kind of history.

Burned Up

Dear Ann—I'm not one who likes to go around telling people how to live, but the letter from Y.C. burned me up. He said you must be some sort of a nut because you did not think it necessary for kids to play with toy guns.

Y.C. said he was raised with toy guns and it helped him become a good shot. I had toy guns when I was a kid, and I was a darned good marksman, but last year I shot another hunter. It was his fault but I'll never get over it.

Anyone who thinks guns are a part of our American heritage is ignorant. Weapons of defence happen to be necessary in the kind of world we are living in. But guns don't make patriotism or love or brotherhood.

In addition to other symptoms of these sick times we have gun-totin' cowboys on every TV channel. American children are growing up to believe the best man is the one who is fastest on the draw—a fine commentary on our culture.—D.C. DISSENER.

It's a Drag

Dear Ann—My grandmother is 87 years old. She has been in the hospital for five weeks. Every night my mother and dad go to see her. They insist that my sister, who is 15, and I (17) go with them.

My two aunts come with their husbands but they don't drag their kids along. We can't see any point in spending two hours every night in the hospital. Grandma doesn't even know where she is or who we are.

Mom says this is the least we can do for Grandma in her last days on earth. What do you think? If you say we should go we won't say another word, but our school work is falling off.—DRAGGED PAIR.

Dear Dragged Pair—Under the circumstances it makes no sense whatever for you kids to spend every evening by the bedside of someone who does not know you are there.

If your parents feel they must go, fine, but I hope they will permit you kids to stay home where you belong so you can do your schoolwork.

Confidential to MAD DAD. Save your pipes. Some kids have to learn the hard way. When your son learns his lesson he'll know what to tell his son—who probably won't listen either.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Sentiment Rules Valentine Cards

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sentiment endures like Santa Claus and mother love, says a woman expert on valentines. This year, said Miss Esther Mooney, the greeting card industry expects some 500 million valentines to be sent—60 million more than last year.

This year's total means that an average of two and one-half valentines will be sent by each American, and industry sources said the bulk will be sentimental.

"And I think the sentiment is genuine," said Miss Mooney. "We found that out during the war. Our company came out with a line of patriotic valentines. The men in the service didn't like them. They wanted the pretty, lacy ones."

"You'd be surprised," she said, "at the type of man who will buy the frilliest number around to say 'I Love You.' He's the strong, he-man type. The man not normally expressive."

"Nostalgia is a factor too. A person selects a card because it looks like one Great-Mabel once got from a beau."

It was reported over $3,720 was raised at a garden party, rummage sales, a coffee party, Hat Bar and Spring Tea. Donations were made for the new church communion rails and $2,000 given to the building fund. $50 was given to the Unitarian Children's Fund and $50 to the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Mrs. John B. Hedley of the Morning Branch gave a report.

Tips for Parents

Home Atmosphere Key to Problems

By HELEN E. HEWSON

Thumb-sucking is an age-old problem—that sometimes becomes a teen-age problem.

"Our eldest boy is almost 16 and he still sucks his thumb while watching television or reading," despair one parent. "Why does he need to do this?"

"As a baby and small boy he was tense and shy but got over it. He is not doing as well in school this year as formerly, although he gets along with his friends, plays a good game of baseball and hockey, he is very critical of himself."

At 16 there is a higher level of self-control and independence than we see at the lower levels. This is often accompanied by severe self-examination as if the young teenager were assessing his faults and weaknesses.

However if the self-criticism is destructive and inhibits the growth of independence and self-direction, he may really be looking for a strengthening of his self-confidence.

You speak of his father being a nervous person. What effect does this have on the home atmosphere? Can you all relax and enjoy a good laugh, some quiet, friendly conversation around the dinner table?

In the quality of family life the key to many adolescent problems is found.

Thumb sucking is rare at 16. Nail-biting is much more common, and at this age is usually an indication of inner tension and uncertainty.

The real solution lies in easing the causes of strain. These you will have to discover by a careful observation of family behavior and reactions.

Meanwhile you can try helping your son to keep his hands busy while watching television. He can clean the green beans for dinner (don't worry if they are not well done), clean some silver, tidy desk drawers, or play solitaire!

Substituting another activity will help to break the habit but only if reinforced by an easing of tension as well.

What's Cooking!

Prepare in Advance For Teen-Age Party

By LOUISE MOORE

As food is half the fun at a teenage party, you'll find the going easier and avoid a flop if you find out beforehand what the gang really enjoys in the way of food. Then plan the menu accordingly—minus frills.

First figure out the number to be present and plan a menu that can be prepared in advance—one the teenagers can handle themselves. Have trays and dishes handy. By using paper dishes and napkins you can save breakage and the cleaning up can be one big blaze.

Do serve foods buffet style and save work.

What do teenagers like best in food? After a strenuous evening outdoors give them something zesty, something hearty and filling. In this category come pizza pie, hot dogs, baked beans, toasted cheese and bacon sandwiches, etc. Hot chocolate milk is nourishing and always a favorite beverage.

Mugs of hot tomato soup with a float of butter on top taste good, too, to a hungry crowd.

Pizzas are easy to make and serve. You can take the short-cut method and use English muffins or a split French loaf of bread. But if you like your own yeast dough, use your recipe that makes two loaves of bread.

After the second rising, QUITA NICHOL

The following ladies will pour at the Quita Nichol Service League St. Valentine's coffee party in the Douglas Room, HBC, on Tuesday, Feb. 9, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. They are Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. Percy Scourrah, Mrs. O. H. Lamont, Mrs. T. Bradbury, Mrs. J. A. Gibbs and Mrs. H. D. Clark.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, bark, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, bark, etc.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural strength and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and finish-to-face principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint. "FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Coating less than most other types of siding the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common ship lap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can be painted with any standard paint. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the lap (where it will not show) to form a vapor barrier.

Building Projects Slip Slightly From Last Year

Greater Victoria has started its construction year well, but not as well as last year.

The city issued 481 building permits in January for work worth $602,738. In January of last year, 478 permits were issued, but the value was $785,354.

Major items on the list last month were a 36-unit motel on Belleville, $140,000, and an addition to the Safeway shopping centre on Fairfield, $100,000.

Saanich issued 47 building permits during January for $341,200. Total for the same month last year was $839,100.

Tenders for Mowers, Loader and Chassis

Sealed tenders will be received by the City Clerk, City Hall, Victoria, B.C., up until noon, on Thursday, February 11, 1960, for the following:

French Beauty Looked 30 But She Was 53

By LELAND KORDLE
(17th of a Series)

During my stay in Buenos Aires, I was a guest at a formal dinner party in one of the old Argentine mansions. The guests were a cosmopolitan group made up of an English couple, several Argentinians, a Brazilian scientist and his wife, a Uruguayan diplomat, a French count and countess.

The evening hadn't progressed very far when I noticed the countess, an extremely attractive woman, speaking earnestly with our host who singled me out with his glance, then nodded, apparently in answer to some question of hers concerning me. Immediately the countess came over to me, "Monsieur Kordle," she said, "how old would you think me?"

I was taken aback by this abrupt question. I looked closely at her clear, fresh skin, her sparkling grey eyes, and her lustrous dark brown hair. She could have been anywhere between 30 and a youthful 40. Her figure was well-rounded without being lumpy, and her carriage was remarkably graceful. So I waded in with my best guess. "Thirty-three, perhaps. And surely not more than 35."

I Have Son that Age

She gave me a searching look. "Yes, I believe you are being honest. Well, monsieur, last month I celebrated my 53rd birthday. I have a son as old as you guessed me!"

Her husband extracted from his wallet a photograph of a woman, quite evidently a relative of the countess, for the features showed a marked resemblance to hers. Yet this was a much older woman.

"That, Monsieur Kordle," she said, "was my face five years ago, before we left France."

Story of B-Vitamins

I have dwelt at length on the paramount need in every diet for plenty of protein—meat, fish, fowl, eggs, cheese, skim milk and seed cereals. But I have saved until now the full story of the youth-bestowing B-vitamins.

All the youth-preserving members of the B-complex family are found in varying degrees in meats, fish, fowl, eggs, skim milk, cheese, green vegetables, legumes, whole grains, berries, melons and fresh fruits. Wheat germ (the raw variety found mostly in health food stores) is another good source of the B-vitamins.

Here's what usually happens when your body is skimped on riboflavin: Your elbows may become red and wrinkled; the skin over your entire body may coarsen with a quick tendency toward rashes and other forms of skin disorders.

Your hair may grow dull and fall out readily. Slightly fissured—often disappear after the body receives enough riboflavin. If you suddenly develop an abnormally oily complexion, more than likely it's because you need more riboflavin in your diet.

Put On a Big Smile It's Fine Exercise

By LLOYD PERCIVAL
(17th of a Series)

Exercising facial muscles aids complexion, promotes youthful appearance and cheerful expression.

It's good for morale too. Smile and Stretch: First contract all your facial muscles by putting on the biggest smile you can.

Hold for nine or 10 seconds, then stretch the muscles as follows: move your lips in over your teeth and open your mouth as wide as you can.

Hold this position for nine or 10 seconds. Repeat cycle of smile-stretch five or six times. Do as often as possible.

Eyes: The eye muscles need exercise too. When regularly stretched and exercised, eye muscles can stand greater strain, sustain health and tone longer.

1. North, South, East and West: Keep head facing straight ahead, move eyes as far up as you can—really stretch.

Hold for a second or two and then move them down as far as you can. Then, to the left! Next to the right.

Start off with just 10 to 20 seconds of exercise, but add gradually until you can do the drill for at least a minute straight.

2. Around the Clock: Keeping head still, move your eyes around to the left in as wide a circle as you can. Do twice in this direction and then circle them to the right.

Do for 10 to 20 seconds, but add time each day until you can do drill for one minute solid.

Notes: 1. At the end of each eye exercise session (the more you do it the better) sit quietly with palms of your hands over eyes.

Hold this position for 20 seconds, then take hands away and look at some object as far away as possible.

Do this five or six times to relax eyes.

2. If your eyes feel tight and sore when you first do the exercise or if the exercise makes you a little dizzy, don't be concerned.

These symptoms, which indicate you need eye exercise and relaxation, will disappear after you have done the exercises regularly for a few days.

The symptoms don't last long enough at the time to be a real problem. Incidentally, an excellent eye refresher is to bathe eyes in alternately hot and cold water for five minutes. Use a small towel or face cloth, pressing it gently over your closed eyes.

Forest Speaker

The forest industry will be discussed by George S. Allen, dean of the UBC faculty of forestry, at a meeting of the University Extension Association, at 8.15 p.m. Monday at Victoria University.

Let's Work Together Labor Urges Business

A Victoria labor leader addressed an audience of business leaders yesterday and called for an effort to work together to meet new challenges.

A. W. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, told the Rotary Club that "there is a need, and now is the time," for more discussion and understanding between labor and management.

It seemed to him, he said, that the tendency was for differences to widen, "and I think you'll agree that that's a poor situation, a serious situation."

In the past, mutual understanding and respect between unions and firms had increased with experience, Mr. Toone said. But there were signs of a change. "We may be at a turning point which could lead us back to the sharp conflict of times gone by."

Rotarians Hear Toone

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce was exerting great pressure on the government for legislation "which we feel is aimed at weakening the labor movement and therefore the whole process of collective bargaining," he said. The resulting suspicion entrenched in the minds of many workers, he added, was "a barricade against the kind of improved relations which should come of the experience of working together."

As examples of restrictive labor legislation, he pointed to B.C.'s "Bill 43" and the Constitution Act which, he said, made the B.C. government the first in the Commonwealth to take away the right of peaceful picketing.

Labor was aware that employers were seeking "other restrictive legislation such as right-to-work laws," Mr. Toone said, and would resist the passage of such legislation in every way possible.

"These are challenging times, and the only way we are going to meet the new challenges effectively is by working together," he said.

Labor felt that some of today's events might lead in the opposite direction, and labor hadn't been known to back away from a fight.

But surely, he said, labor and management had reached a stage where there was a more constructive way of overcoming differences.

Tax Rise Anguish Fading

The anger and anguish which attended increases in Victoria assessments in the government's equalization program are fading.

When court of revision on assessments opened at City Hall this week, much of the fire of the last few years was missing.

The complaints were mostly reasonable. The owner of a cottage on Redfern explained that it was being torn down—he hadn't realized she needed a demolition permit—and the court reduced the assessment on it from $600 to $200.

The owners of a house on Quebec complained that the taxes had risen $70. The court explained that it had nothing to do with taxes, but City Assessor Alfred Joyce recommended, and the court approved, a $40 reduction in assessment.

Garden Notes

In Praise of Digging

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

As a lazy gardener, I have written many times about tricks, stunts and techniques to cut down or avoid hard work in the garden. Sometimes I think I have gone too far in advocating labor-saving procedures—I may have created the impression that digging, for instance, is unmitigated drudgery, to be avoided at all cost.

It is true I have a violent aversion to lifting potatoes, for I detest scrambling around on my hands and knees picking up the tubers. Our lawn is usually shaggy and whiskery around the edges, for I will go to any length to avoid the monotonous and boring chore of clipping the edges by hand. But strangely enough, I don't mind digging over a vacant bit of ground—in fact, I get quite a kick out of it.

With my favorite long-handled, pointed-nose shovel, the job can be done without too much bending and stooping, and there is a wonderful satisfaction from the sight of the work completed, each spadeful neatly turned over so that weeds and crop residues are completely buried.

There is a soothing rhythm in the swing of arms and body, in the sharp, clean blade driven full depth into the soil; in the unhurried levering and lifting, hands moving smoothly on shaft and grip polished by long usage. It is a delight to watch a real old-time gardener at work and to note his apparently leisurely pace.

Not for him the frantic effort to get the whole patch done before supper—he has learned by long experience to take only narrow bites of soil, to work unhurriedly, and to pause, lean on the spade handle and take a breather at the end of each row.

If digging is to be a pleasure instead of a chore, the spade or shovel must be chosen with care to suit its owner and must be maintained in good condition. It shouldn't be too large or too heavy and it should lie easily and comfortably in the hands. A good spade won't be found on any bargain counter, although an expensive tool isn't necessarily a good one.

It is best to select your spade as you would a golf club. Pick it up and handle it. Judge it carefully against length of arm and leg. Test it for balance to see if it feels good in the hands and check the smoothness and finish of the handle, for rough, splintery wood can be unadulterated misery.

A carefully chosen spade—or a long-handled shovel like mine—should become an old friend and remain a treasured possession for years. Given proper care, it will not deteriorate with age, but will actually improve. The blade will acquire a keenness which no manufacturer can impart, while the handle takes on a patina, like that of antique furniture. From time to time, the edge is touched up with a file to remove any roughness and the blade well cleaned and wiped with an oily rag to prevent rust.

I felt rather badly last fall when I turned in a friendly old car for a chrome-plated but rather tiny 1960 model, and I think I will feel the same way when the time comes to replace my ancient shovel. I hear, though, that spades with stainless steel blades will be available soon, with tubular steel handles coated with tough plastic for smoothness and hard wear. If I ever part with my tried-and-true garden companion, it will be for one of these.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

Tuneful, Witty, Thoughtful

Well, Leland Hayward did it again. Flying directly in the face of some odious comparisons with his first and only other TV show, the celebrated and almost legendary Mary Martin-Ethel Merman show of 1953, Hayward proceeded to top himself with his Sunday "Fabulous Fifties" (CBS-TV), which was, in just about every respect, a marvelously tuneful, witty and good-looking, nostalgic and thought-provoking show.

"The Fabulous Fifties" had three ingredients that are rarely found—at least, in such generous quantities—on television. They are pace, style, and taste. In the first place, pace. Hayward had a two-hour show on his hands so he didn't start out as if he were running five furlongs. The show started slowly and beautifully with a montage of still pictures backed up by melodies—all the melodies we've been whistling these last 10 years—everything from "Volare" to those cursed Chipmunks—the whole thing designed to put us in a properly nostalgic mood.

The photographs of Perry Como, Frank Sinatra, of surf breaking on shore, of Judy Garland getting younger—all arranged by Charles Eames—were bold and simple and stunningly effective. The treatment of our just-closed decade might be described as both satiric and affectionate. You can hardly ask for a nicer combination than that.

Dick Van Dyke, for instance, he of the rubbery face and the boneless Ray Bolgeresque body, did a gay, charming spoof in pantomime of a male wallflower trying to keep abreast of the dance mania from the Mambo to the Cha-cha to Rock 'n' Roll—and not making it.

Shelley Berman had a very funny bit as a father trying to reason with his son, Flip Mark, and getting thoroughly worsted. Suzy Parker engaged in a funny skit which brought to life those manic advertisements—starting with Flama Grande where the girl is caught by the gypsy's whip. ("I wasn't even supposed to get off the bus"). And including those martini-drinkers up a tree, a lovely idea. It was written by Mike Nichols.

From time to time, in the two hours, the satire, the whimsy, the gaiety were interrupted for some deeply serious thoughts which gave tone and an added dimension to the show. I devoutly hope some other TV producers and sponsors paid close attention.

One of the serious moments was the reading from Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "Gift from the Sea," again with the background of Charles Eames' lovely photographs, a plea for individuality in this crowded life.

No history of the last decade could be written without paying some heed to television. There were shows of Milton Berle in those horrible bathing suits, Mary Martin flying in Peter Pan, Sen. McCarthy simpering, Murrow rumbling, and Martin and Merman singing that noted duet. What a decade it's been!

From the great musical hit "My Fair Lady" Julie Andrews did her Cockney number, "Just You Wait, 'Erny 'Iggyins," and Rex Harrison gave an utterly brilliant rendition of I'm an Ordinary Man—both superb.

I have a few minor reservations. There was a cartoon bit attributed to Robert Paul Smith (a very funny man but no cartoonist) which I frankly didn't dig. Then there was the Jackie Gleason number, which may have been a mistake. Gleason gave it his extraordinarily talented all—but that material from the Broadway musical "Take Me Along" should never have been placed cheek by jowl with "My Fair Lady." Otherwise, though, it was a great adult, witty, pretty, literate show from a great showman and, like Hayward's other TV operation, a memorable show.

Soraya May Sell Her Life

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Ex-queen Soraya has been offered $250,000 by a French-Italian group for movie rights to her life story, with Soraya as associate producer. Soraya might say "yes."

Marlon Brando takes his new girl, brunette Barbara Luna, to the coffee houses around town. They duet on the bongo drums.

After Milton Berle won a men's apparel club award, wife Ruth explained, "It's because I've been hanging up Miltie's clothes every night."

Charlton Heston's album on Moses looks like a runaway, to judge from advance orders.

Young Connie Francis is a record industry in herself. She has sold 15,000,000 records in the last 15 months. No wonder everyone wants to sing.

Edd "Kookie" Byrnes' girl friend, Asa Maynor, reports: "He's going crazy, out of his senses." Kookie, on suspension at Warners, has been doing odd jobs while written out of "77 Sunset Strip," but might be back any day now.

Singer Fabian wears the loudest sports jackets at local cocktail parties.

Shortest hairdo in town is that of Shirley Maclaine. It's no problem for her—Shirley runs her fingers through her hair and voila! She's ready for anything.

Tony Curtis, re his play "The Juggler," for Ford Starline: "This is my own show, owned by Curtleigh. We plan to also sell it overseas." This is the new way of TV working for top stars. It began with Fred Astaire's "Evening," which he owns outright. Cyd Charisse also owns her "Special." This is a more profitable arrangement even than residuals!

If you read that movie stars are going to Japan, it isn't only for the baths. It's to catch up with unfrozen yen. The last time Bob Hope was in Japan, he had a frolic using up hundreds of thousands of frozen yen from his "Seven Little Foys" movie.

John Huston and his young wife are living in two separate houses on Huston's big estate in Ireland. Mrs. H. lives in a cottage, but takes her meals every day with the adventurous director.

Daddy, Stay in Your Room

(Eleventh of 12 articles.)

To those readers who insist on prying into my private life I'll admit this much: I am married to a black-haired, brown-eyed, charming, named Edna and I have three children. Two of them are grown up. The third is a female moppet named Melinda, who is 13 and whose word is law.

A few weeks ago Melinda ordered me to "her room." "Daddy, I have to have a party."

"Okay," I agreed. "Invite a couple of kids over some night."

"No," she said. "I don't think you understand. I have to have a real party."

"All right, invite four kids over," I said genially.

She shook her head. "Four kids are no good." "Melinda," I replied, "no kids are any good. But tell me, just what are you after?"

"Well, Daddy, I want to have 22 kids over next Friday, and you have to stay in your room until they all go home."

I proceeded to take the offensive. "What will this party entail in the way of preparations?" "Really nothing," she smiled brightly. "Just some little old potato chips, Coca-Cola and Seven-Up."

As it turned out, Melinda was carrying one of the smaller ones over to the fireplace, apparently with intent to barbecue. I rescued the medium-rare victim and then delivered a short, stern speech, pointing out that the interior of an expensive living room was hardly the ideal locale for reenacting the last days of Joan of Arc.

Melinda rushed over to me and said, "Daddy! Get back to your room! The kids all resent you!"

By 9:30 the silence began to get on my nerves. I crept out again to see how young America on the march was making out. On one side of the room the girls were dancing with each other.

On the other side of the room the boys were engaged in a very interesting contest of scuffling and wrestling. I sneaked warily out the door of my study (which Melinda had fortunately overlooked), and down the corridor to the living room. I arrived just in time.

Three of the larger boys were carrying one of the smaller ones over to the fireplace, apparently with intent to barbecue. I rescued the medium-rare victim and then delivered a short, stern speech, pointing out that the interior of an expensive living room was hardly the ideal locale for reenacting the last days of Joan of Arc.

Melinda rushed over to me and said, "Daddy! Get back to your room! The kids all resent you!"

By 9:30 the silence began to get on my nerves. I crept out again to see how young America on the march was making out. On one side of the room the girls were dancing with each other.

On the other side of the room the boys were engaged in throwing lighted matches under the sofa. It seemed to me one whose match burned the longest was to collect 10 cents from each of the losers.

Again I rushed into the room and made peace. I had the same speech I had made before. Finally, at the stroke of 10:30 I ran out and shouted, "Okay, party's over! Everybody out!"

A few of the more gentlemanly ones thanked me for a pleasant evening. Two of the boys kicked me in the shins as they left.

"Melinda," I began apologetically. "I'm sorry I had to break my promise and horn in on your party. I hope I didn't offend any of your guests."

She turned to me with a big smile. "Oh, no, Daddy. They didn't mind your coming in. They all see you on TV and they know you're always kidding. It was a wonderful party and I know now I'll get a lot of invitations from the other kids."

Ottawa Bets on Peace, Cuts Arms

Prospects Best In Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The government made it pretty plain Thursday it is gambling on continuation of easier world tensions and possibly an East-West disarmament agreement.

External Affairs Minister Green has said there is more hope now for a disarmament agreement than at any time in the last 14 years.

BIG BITE

This hope has been translated into a slash of nearly $100,000,000—six per cent—in defence spending, with the biggest bite eating into procurement or new weapons and equipment. (See other estimates news on page 10.)

Officials said no provision is made in the estimates for any new item of equipment beyond those already announced but not yet delivered.

SMALLER SHARE

In the fiscal year starting April 1, defence will account for 27.8 per cent of the total government expenditures, compared with 29.6 per cent in the current fiscal year.

Defence now takes up about four per cent of the gross national product, compared with about nine per cent a decade ago.

LEAST SINCE 1952

The government's main spending estimates tabled Thursday in the Commons present Parliament with a defence bill of $1,596,272,266, a decrease of $98,921,740 from the current year and the smallest outlay since 1951-52.

Estimated expenditures on weapons and equipment were chopped 13 per cent, or $44,000,000, to $280,000,000, smallest amount since the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950.

LESS UPKEEP

Cost of maintaining the forces and their present weapons was estimated at $1,118,353,453, a slight decrease of $10,000,000 effected through lower expenditures on repair and upkeep of equipment.

Reduced spending for new weapons can be attributed partly to a tapering-off in some major programs such as procurement of anti-submarine planes, and partly to unwillingness, at present to provide the forces, especially the army, with new weapons such as missiles.

DOWN DRAIN

The government apparently feels such expenditures would be money down the drain if some agreement were reached at coming disarmament negotiations.

One authority said it is pointless to maintain armed forces unless they are equipped with the most modern weapons. Other officials said the forces are likely to complain bitterly.

BOMARC BASES

Planned expenditures on construction of bases for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile program, including its electronic control system and more radar, are more than doubled to $22,000,000 from $10,000,000.

The navy will get more for ships—$40,426,000 against $29,282,000—and the CF-104 jet plane for the RCAF air division in Europe will cost $75,000,000 in 1960-61.

In every other major weapons field, spending is cut.

Satellite Failure

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Discoverer IX satellite rocket failed to reach orbital speed and fell back into the atmosphere Thursday.

The air force said the second stage failed to reach the required speed for reasons unknown.

This was the third failure of nine Discoverers launched so far. None has performed the main mission to eject a capsule so it can be recovered.

Wild Welcome to Cuba

Shaken and bewildered by crushing reception at Havana airport, Russia's Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan is conducted through yelling crowd by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Mikoyan was so pleased by the welcome that he walked several blocks through downtown Havana later in the day, genially shaking hands with Cubans and accompanied by trotting urchins as well as a casual bodyguard.—(AP Photofax.)

He expects to be back in the legislature next Friday to deliver his budget address.

Border Fight Spreads

JERUSALEM (AP)—Skirmishing broke out on a second sector of the Israeli-Syrian frontier Thursday. Syrians and Israelis exchanged fire near Shaar Yashuv, 25 miles north of the Tawafik battle zone. Nobody seemed hurt seriously. Syrian and Israeli accounts agreed the skirmish erupted at 12:30 p.m. Each blamed the other.

RETURNED FIRE

"Fire opened from Syrian strongholds on an Israeli patrol," an Israeli spokesman said. "The fire was returned. One of the patrol was slightly wounded."

In Damascus, an Arab spokesman said an Israeli armored car pushed into the frontier demilitarized zone and fired on Syrian outposts, but Syrian gunners did not immediately reply.

ANOTHER CAR

Half an hour later another armored car arrived and both opened up against Syrian positions, the Arabs said, and the Syrians shot back and damaged one of the cars.

The Israelis said one of their policemen was wounded earlier by Syrian gunfire.

Big Crowds Welcome Dr. Moore

LAND'S END, England (AP)—Dr. Barbara Moore triumphantly trudged the last few miles of her 1,000-mile walk from top to bottom of Britain tonight despite an aching ankle and the worst of British weather.

The 56-year-old vegetarian was near the village of Hayle in Cornwall, 15 miles from her destination at Land's End on the southwest toe of England.

Crowds lined the sidewalk six deep in every little town along her route. Dr. Moore greeted them with a grin, a wave, and some times she shouted: "I'll do it, I'll do it."

Talks Collapse

Lying, Says U.S.; Bad Faith—Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

The United States and the Soviet Union wrangled angrily yesterday over collapse of lend-lease settlement talks set up by President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev last fall.

The Soviet embassy here issued a statement upbraiding the United States for bad faith in breaking off the negotiations. The state department icily countered that in effect the Russians were lying about what Khrushchev said.

The negotiations on the Second World War debt owed the U.S. by the Russians broke off last week because Soviet representatives insisted any settlement be tied to a relaxation of trade barriers and long-range U.S. loans to Russia.

The Soviet embassy claimed Khrushchev made it plain to Eisenhower at Camp David that any settlement talks had to be tied to trade and credit concessions to the Russians. But a state department spokesman said: "Khrushchev stated that he didn't need any credits and he didn't want any credits."

The spokesman also said Eisenhower clearly advised Khrushchev that removal of trade restrictions and repeal of a law barring private loans to Russia was up to congress and would have to be dealt with separately.

Wherever You Go ---Radio

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Convicts were working on streets here. One asked permission of a guard to go into a nearby automobile accessories store.

"Why?" he was asked. "I want to get a battery for my transistor radio," he replied, "because the one in it has gone out and I just can't work as well without it."

'Events Cry Out: Look to Future'

"British Columbia is ready to take off in the 60s," Trade Minister Robert Bonner told the legislature yesterday. (See also page 2.)

He said population is expected to increase from 1,595,000 as of Jan. 1 this year, to 2,200,000 by Jan. 1, 1970.

Personal income is expected to soar from $2,790,000,000 in 1959 to $4,800,000,000 in 1969.

SALES, OUTPUT

Retail sales are expected to jump from $1,688,000,000 to $3,100,000,000 in the same 10-year period; net value of production from $1,887,500,000 to $3,000,000,000; and the total labor force from 560,000 to 775,000.

Mr. Bonner pointed out B.C. population is growing at twice the national rate for Canada. He said that the United States population is expected to increase 20 per cent, to 210,000,000 people by 1970.

IMPACT GREATER

"We know now what we sell to 180,000,000 Americans. Add 20 per cent to their number and the impact upon us is not merely 20 per cent greater but, in the increasing complexity of our North American economy, a great deal more," he said.

"The events cry out to us, urging for preparation for the future," he said.

NO GRASP

He said there is a widespread inability or unwillingness to grasp the sense and the impact of events around us, "events which cannot fail to have a marked effect on the future development of the province."

"A future not less, but more promising than the record of the past."

PAST GAINS

He said that in 1950, selling value of B.C. factory shipments was at $1,133,000,000 and in 1959 reached just short of $2,000,000,000; in 1950 population was 1,137,000, today it is just short of 1,600,000; personal income was $1,398,000,000 in 1950, today it is about double at $2,790,000,000; in 1950 B.C. road users burned up 157,000,000 gallons of gasoline, today they burn 321,000,000 gallons annually; last year B.C. used 12,350,000 kilowatts of electrical energy, almost three times as much as in 1950.

DOUBTERS WRONG

"The doubters 10 years ago would have been the majority but in point of fact time would have proven them wrong," he said.

"We are ready for much greater things, but the extent of our take-off in the 1960s lies in our ability to continue to attract capital and in increasing measure to produce it ourselves," he said.

DEVELOPMENT

"It will be necessary before we can take a great leap forward to develop one or more substantial manufacturing sectors with a high rate of growth," he observed.

Development in the next decade of the province's great energy resources found in hydroelectric sites and in oil and natural gas deposits, will raise the industrial potential of the B.C. economy at least tenfold, he said.

ENERGY IS KEY

"Energy, more than anything else, will prove the major factor in the attraction and subsequent establishment of heavy industry in this province," he said.

Mr. Bonner lamented that those opposing the plans for development of power in the province have so far discussed the question of hydroelectricity quite apart from any other influence, such as economic growth.

TRADE MINISTER BONNER
... better than ever

Columbia Might Hurt B.C. Trade

Cheap electricity alone will not open United States markets to British Columbia production of even the most power-sensitive commodities, Trade Minister Robert Bonner warned the legislature yesterday.

He said B.C. might be hurting its own industry through development of the Columbia. "By making available to the United States more than 1,000,000 kilowatts of downstream power benefits, the Americans will be physically able to replace with their own production, present or potential imports of British Columbia-produced power-sensitive commodities, especially aluminum," he said.

"We may be doing ourselves a disservice, unless we tackle simultaneously the problem of access to American markets by tariff adjustment," he warned.

Snow Thuds Off Roofs Onto People

HALIFAX (CP)—Maintenance crews wearing snowshoes worked Thursday to untangle fallen power lines along the Nova Scotia south-west coast as the province continued to dig out from the worst winter storm of the century.

Sunny skies greeted Nova Scotians Thursday, but tons of snow that accumulated on buildings during Wednesday's 30-inch snowfall tumbled from the roofs onto many pedestrians.

Letters to the Editor

Gutter Methods

An item in the Colonist of Feb. 3 tells of UBC students pelting Tim Buck with orange peel when he attempted to address them recently. I recall a similar episode when Mr. Bennett spoke at the university.

Are these our future diplomats? Is this our hope for the future, that whenever they meet with a policy with which they disagree they will resort to methods developed in the gutter?

I would presume that these students are the cream of the high school graduates, and that their minds are being trained to grapple with the tremendous problems of the future; yet they can find no intelligent questions, no grounds for general discussion, and presumably no food for thought when listening to the leaders of groups within our population.

Do we really need a university in Victoria?

Not Fine or Fun

Will you kindly let me use a little valuable space to express my point of view regarding the Friday evening parking meters?

As usual when a candidate for office speaks, we the public listen and vote. Once in office the elected official feels that he must do something to show that he really did something or to make headlines. But in this case there was no promise of parking meters on Friday night. I think this is the silliest proposition. For the proponent it may be fine, but when comes to the detriment of the public and business, it is not fine or fun!

I think it is silly to keep a store open on Friday night, but if it is of convenience for the shoppers and public in general, that is all right, even when the cost of operating is more than the profit, as long as there are people on the street the merchant will keep open. Now the proposal of parking meters on Friday night comes up. That is a fine way to chase people out of the city especially when there are so many outside shopping centres with ample space to park.

I think the so-called City Fathers would be better to stop, think and propose something that the public appreciates more than the parking meters.

Sin for a Season

The article in the Colonist of Feb. 2 regarding the young Bristol girl who resigned from the Band of Hope because she had started drinking and liked it was deserving of front-page headlines.

This tragedy is typical of youth today, enjoying the pleasures of sin for a season.

No derelict on skid road ever intended to be anything but a moderate drinker; but found out too late that the chain of habit is too weak to be felt until too strong to be broken.

'Douglas Boulevard'

Sir James Douglas was a very important man in the history of Vancouver Island. Douglas Street ends where Patricia Bay Highway commences.

Patricia Bay Highway does not touch Patricia Bay, nor does it touch Sidney village. Should it be re-named Swartz Bay Highway or Douglas Boulevard?

It appears to me that Douglas Boulevard or Drive would be the better name, especially if it is lined with silver birches (weeping willows, or dogwood trees might do in places where the graceful birches will not grow).

Flood-Hit Bridge Crippled

DUNCAN—Government engineers say from $50,000 to $60,000 damage may have been done to Clem-Clem-Alutz Bridge by rampaging flood waters a week ago.

A slow run-off is hampering investigations being made on the 200-foot-long wooden structure.

J. W. Morris, highways department engineer, said yesterday:

"We are in the process of assessing the damage to find out if it can be put back in as a temporary measure. It should have gone into the river. It is just hanging there. A new bridge could cost as much as $50,000 or $60,000."

It is now closed to motor and pedestrian traffic, said Mr. Morris, who advised anyone walking over it that they "are doing so at their own risk."

Ladysmith Span to Open

LADYSMITH—Highways department engineer J. W. Morris said yesterday Diamond Bridge may be opened next Wednesday.

The bridge just north of Ladysmith was damaged Jan. 3 when a Comox Logging and Railway Co. crane on a flat car fell against an upright support. It and a crossbeam imbedded in concrete had to be replaced.

'Hostile' Witness Testifies:

'I'm In for Murder' Miller Told Inmate

NANAIMO—A fellow-prisoner at Oakalla thought Leland Eugene Miller, a 33-year-old Victoria man, was joking when he told him that he was "in for murdering his wife."

"I asked him if he wasn't in for murdering his mother-in-law and I started to laugh," said prosecution witness Edward Michael McCabe.

McCabe was giving evidence at Miller's trial yesterday for murder. Miller is accused of slaying his common-law wife, Mrs. Dorothy Frances Duvjonek on the night of April 2, 1957.

'LITTLE MEN'

Miller's brother, Alvin, and his sister, Mrs. Norma Godfrey, both testified yesterday that Miller had told them of "little men in black suits" who had been following him.

Miller, they said, visited them both at their respective houses the night of the slaying.

Mrs. Godfrey said Miller had asked her if she thought people could read other people's minds.

Answering defence counsel James Proudfoot, Alvin Miller said that Miller and Mrs. Duvjonek "got along very well."

GET HIM FIRED

"Did you have a discussion with your brother to do with his strange behavior?" Mr. Proudfoot asked.

Alvin Miller replied that when his brother worked at a Victoria dairy, he was constantly worried about "the guys there trying to get rid of him... trying to get him fired."

He said that his brother had suffered two severe falls. After one fall in 1948 or 1949, he had been in hospital for six weeks.

McCabe, who was declared a "hostile" witness and subjected to examination by Crown counsel in a grueling two-hour session, said he and Miller had been taken to Oakalla together just over two years ago.

McCabe denied some of the statements he was alleged to have made at the preliminary hearing, but admitted he had spoken to Miller on two occasions at Oakalla.

Jaycee Police For Disaster

DUNCAN—Jaycees have agreed to a request that they become part of the civil defence auxiliary police.

The request came from E. C. Bolin, civil defence director, who warned the group they would have to be thoroughly screened by the RCMP.

He said they will also have to take a five-week course, one night a week, under the RCMP on traffic control and policing in situations such as looting.

Mid-Island Set to Aid University

NANAIMO—Committees from mid-island centres have been established to raise money for the new Victoria University.

Representatives from the centres met in Nanaimo Tuesday to hear deputy provincial secretary E. J. Wallace outline plans to enlarge the campus in Victoria to include a 200,000-book library and a science building.

It is hoped to raise $250,000 for the expansion, with the provincial government donating a similar amount.

New York Rangers apparently responded to the threats of mass fining last night by ending a 10-game winless streak with a 3-1 win over Detroit's slipping Red Wings—but it took an other spectacular performance by goalkeeper Lorne Worsley to keep their pay cheques intact.

"If they don't follow orders tonight, I'll rap them and rap them good," manager Muzak Patrick told reporters before the game. "They'll taste some $100 fines and if they don't better then they'll taste more."

Whether it was Patrick's threat or just the law of averages, the Rangers cracked through for two third-period

Senseless Say RCMP

The butchered body of a seven-month-old Hereford bull, missing since Monday, was found yesterday in John Dean Park near Sidney.

It was the second time in less than a month that animals have been savagely slaughtered in this area.

A peacock was killed and a crane maimed in the deer pen at Beacon Hill Park in the latter part of January.

Sidney RCMP said the animal's throat had been cut and one hindquarter removed. They estimated the bull's weight at 300 to 400 pounds.

RCMP Cpl. William Stanton said the theft and slaughter was one of the most ridiculous and senseless he had seen. It appeared the bull had been killed for one piece of beef and the rest left to rot.

Last fall, white feathers found beside a pond in Beacon Hill Park were all that remained of a swan which disappeared. About a year ago, a deer was slaughtered in the same park.

Friday Meters Needed?

Parking meters should only go into effect in downtown Victoria during Friday evening shopping hours if parking congestion demands such a move, a Victoria Chamber of Commerce official said yesterday.

Freedom from having to pay for parking during Friday night store hours "helps to encourage downtown shopping," he said.

Cowichan Trustees Charge:

B.C. Retires Debt While Schools Beg

DUNCAN — Trustees of Cowichan school district (65) last night bitterly criticized the provincial government's failure to market bonds for school construction while it concentrated on retiring the provincial debt.

They took the stand when it was disclosed that even though the Bank of Montreal has offered to loan them $477,000, crowding cannot be avoided next term.

Disdain was also heaped on the education department for the "rather low standard" of assistance it gave to the school district in trying to get money.

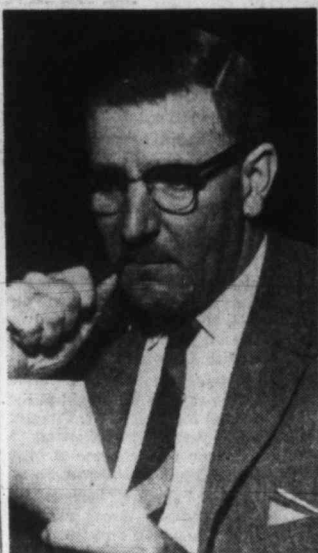

Their feelings were expressed in a report from the finance committee, signed by Trustees Wilf Peck and J. S. C. Fraser, which will be forwarded to Premier Bennett, the minister of education, MLAs in the district and the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

The bank said it will loan the district $250,000 by June and $227,000 by the end of the year.

The brief, which was unanimously approved by the board, states:

"While we should make every effort to have as many classrooms as possible completed by next September, it is unfortunate that it is extremely unlikely that additional secondary accommodation will be completed by then. This will result in, at least, disruption due to emergency accommodation."

Grade 6 Test a Bit Embarrassing

Parents Try School Exam

New Respect for Pupils As No Dad, Mom Gets 'A'

By IAN STREET

A group of parents this week spent half an hour scratching their heads over four pages of sample questions given to Grade 6 pupils at Gordon Head School.

About half the 26 parents who wrote the test tallied B grades (between 65 and 79 per cent); no one was good enough to rate an A.

ALL GOOD SPORTS

"They were all good sports," said principal P. D. Parfitt afterwards. "I believe it showed them what their children study and how tests are administered."

Arithmetic was the stumbling block for many parents, even some of those who use figures in their workaday life. They were enlightened by teachers who worked out the deceptively simple problems on a blackboard.

Drummond Taylor, 1708 Ash Road, who has a daughter in Grade 6 at Gordon Head School, is comptroller of Victoria Machinery Depot. Despite a final standing among those with the highest marks, he made a comparatively poor showing in arithmetic.

"I'm embarrassed," said Mr. Taylor. "But it certainly revealed the calibre of knowledge expected of a Grade 6 student today. I'm agreeably surprised my daughter is able to handle the type of questions we were given."

BOYS WIN RESPECT

"I have a good deal more respect for my boys now," said Mrs. N. L. Morgan, 4171 Glendenning, mother of sons in Grades 4 and 6.

"I'd forgotten some things I learned in school," she said, "but I was quite surprised at the questions I was able to answer."

PTA president Mrs. A. E.

Newton, 2164 Ferndale, said a survey of members taken earlier in the year showed most were anxious to discover what their children were learning in school and what teaching methods were used.

"We certainly found out what we had forgotten," she said. Her own children, two boys and two girls, are in Grades 2, 4, 5 and 6.

Success of the venture has prompted discussion of further test papers covering work in lower elementary grades. The Grade 6 test papers included such questions as: how many years did the Romans rule in Britain?

EARTH'S TILT

A sample science question: at what degree is the earth's axis tilted?

Arithmetic questions included: find the average of 6% and 2%.

Rodney Beavan, 4105 Cedar Hill, a lawyer and father of a boy in Grade 2 and a girl in Grade 4, ruefully recalled his service days during the Second World War as an instructor in gunnery mathematics. He added: "Now I'm buffeted by a simple arithmetic problem."

He said: "It makes you realize just how much a child has to know ... probably a good deal more than we give them credit for."

Later over coffee, at the end of the meeting, PTA members were agreed that the experiment was a success and should be repeated in the future.

Around the Island

$1,236,500 Earmarked For Wharves, Harbors

DUNCAN — A delegation from the Chamber of Commerce will present a brief to Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi asking that part of the Cowichan Lake Road be straightened.

It is an eight-mile-long stretch just east of Duncan which would eliminate two railway crossings and at least a dozen curves in the road.

Training Cruise

Three Navy Ships Going to Japan

Training cruise of three RCN destroyer escorts, which starts Monday, will take the ships to Hong Kong and Japan, the navy confirmed yesterday.

The Ottawa, Saguenay and St. Laurent will leave Esquimalt at 2 p.m. Monday.

During the 2½-month cruise the ships will take part in anti-submarine exercises with units of the United States Navy, beginning with a two-day exercise off Cape Flattery on the way south.

CONFERENCE

The ships are scheduled to reach Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 14 for a two-day exercise conference with U.S. Navy authorities before heading for Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, where they are scheduled to arrive Feb. 23.

After two days at Pearl Harbor the ships will sail for Japan, stopping at Yokosuka, near Tokyo, March 7 for three days.

Next call will be Okinawa March 16 for two days, and on to Hong Kong, arriving March 21.

The destroyer escorts will stay a full week in Hong Kong, sailing March 28 for operations in the Okinawa area from March 31 to April 9. Next stop will be Kobe, Japan, from April 11 to April 14.

The ships will return to home port by way of the Aleutian Islands, stopping in Adak overnight April 21-22 to refuel.

Return to Esquimalt is set for 10 a.m. April 29.

Black to Open Today's Debate

Provincial Secretary and Minister of Municipal Affairs Wesley Black will lead off the Throne Speech debate in the House at 2 p.m. today. Other speakers scheduled are Tom Uphill (Ind., Fernie), Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) and Dan Campbell (SC, Comox).

Prospects Best In Years

OTTAWA (CP)—The government made it pretty plain Thursday it is gambling on continuation of easier world tensions and possibly an East-West disarmament agreement.

External Affairs Minister Green has said there is more hope now for a disarmament agreement than at any time in the last 14 years.

BIG BITE

This hope has been translated into a slash of nearly $100,000,000—six per cent—in defence spending, with the biggest bite eating into procurement of new weapons and equipment. (See other estimates news on page 10.)

Officials said no provision is made in the estimates for any new item of equipment beyond those already announced but not yet delivered.

SMALLER SHARE

In the fiscal year starting April 1, defence will account for 27.8 per cent of the total government expenditures, compared with 29.6 per cent in the current fiscal year.

The government's main spending estimates tabled Thursday in the Commons present Parliament with a defence bill of $1,596,272,266, a decrease of $98,921,740 from the current year and the smallest outlay since 1951-52.

Estimated expenditures on weapons and equipment were chopped 13 per cent, or $44,000,000, to $280,000,000, smallest amount since the outbreak of the Korean War in 1950.

LESS UPKEEP

Cost of maintaining the forces and their present weapons was estimated at $1,118,353,453, a slight decrease of $10,000,000 effected through lower expenditures on repair and upkeep of equipment.

Reduced spending for new weapons can be attributed partly to a tapering-off in some major programs such as procurement of anti-submarine planes, and partly to unwillingness, at present to provide the forces, especially the army, with new weapons such as missiles.

DOWN DRAIN

The government apparently feels such expenditures would be money down the drain if some agreement were reached at coming disarmament negotiations.

The navy will get more for ships—$40,426,000 against $29,282,000—and the CF-104 jet plane for the RCAF air division in Europe will cost $75,000,000 in 1960-61.

Satellite Failure

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Discoverer IX satellite rocket failed to reach orbital speed and fell back into the atmosphere Thursday.

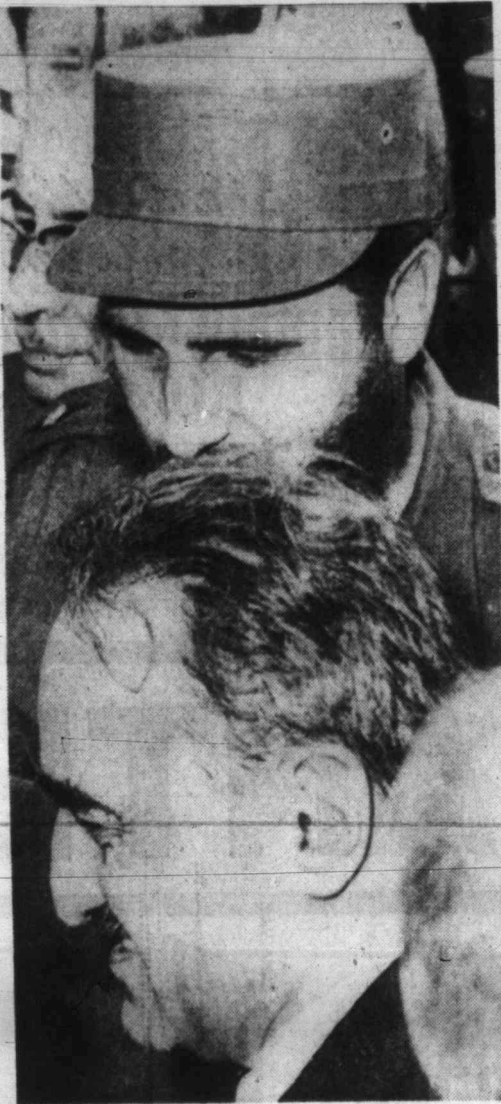

The air force said the second stage failed to reach the required speed for reasons unknown.

This was the third failure of nine Discoverers launched so far. None has performed the main mission to eject a capsule so it can be recovered.

High Winds Hit Town

Victoria was buffeted by 42-mile-an-hour winds that gusted to 62 at 11.20 p.m. yesterday.

The east-southeasterly winds were attributed to an approaching upper weather front expected to pass over the city this morning and were stronger than had been expected, a weather office spokesman said.

Wild Welcome to Cuba

Shaken and bewildered by crushing reception at Havana airport, Russia's Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan is conducted through yelling crowd by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Mikoyan was so pleased by the welcome that he walked several blocks through downtown Havana later in the day, genially shaking hands with Cubans and accompanied by trotting urchins as well as a casual bodyguard. Bennett Busy

Martin Home With 'Flu

Eric Martin, acting president of the cabinet is ill with the flu, and is not expected back in the legislature until Monday.

Premier Bennett convalescing at home is now seeing an increasing quantity of official mail and in effect has set up a part-time premier's office at home.

He expects to be back in the legislature next Friday to deliver his budget address.

Border Fight Spreads

JERUSALEM (AP)—Skirmishing broke out on a second sector of the Israeli-Syrian frontier Thursday. Syrians and Israelis exchanged fire near Shaar Yashuv, 25 miles north of the Tawafik battle zone. Nobody seemed hurt seriously.

Syrian and Israeli accounts agreed the skirmish erupted at 12.30 p.m. Each blamed the other.

"Fire opened from Syrian strongholds on an Israeli patrol," an Israeli spokesman said. "The fire was returned. One of the patrol was slightly wounded."

In Damascus, an Arab spokesman said an Israeli armored car pushed into the frontier demilitarized zone and fired on Syrian outposts, but Syrian gunners did not immediately reply.

Half an hour later another armored car arrived and both opened up against Syrian positions, the Arabs said, and the Syrians shot back and damaged one of the cars.

Flu's Toll in Dallas Worst Since 1918

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Influenza will kill more people in Dallas this week than it has in any other seven-day period since 1918, Dr. J. W. Bass, city health director, said.

Nineteen have died in Dallas since Friday of flu or pneumonia, and Dr. Bass predicted another 16 or 20 will die before the seven-day period is over. During a seven-day period in 1918 there were 80 deaths in Dallas due to flu, he said.

'No Alternative'

Reds Threaten Pact With East Germany

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Warsaw pact nations said last night they would have "no alternative" but to sign separate peace treaties with East Germany if the West did not reach agreement with Russia on Germany.

The communists said the Soviet stand for the forthcoming East-West summit meeting in Paris.

The Warsaw pact powers also pledged to adopt the Soviet total disarmament campaign and called anew for a non-aggression treaty with NATO.

Delegates Demand Fast Disarmament

LONDON (Reuters)—An unofficial East-West disarmament conference, wound up three days of talks with a demand for fast action. Delegates from 16 countries —Communist and non-Communist—joined in urging the 10-nation disarmament conference, meeting next month, to work without a break until agreement was reached.

Big Crowds Welcome Dr. Moore

LANE'S END, England (AP)—Dr. Barbara Moore triumphantly trudged the last few miles of her 1,000-mile walk from top to bottom of Britain tonight despite an aching ankle and the worst of British weather.

Crowds lined the sidewalk six deep, in every little town along her route. Dr. Moore greeted them with a grin, a wave, and some times she shouted: "I'll do it, I'll do it!"

Talks Collapse

Lying, Says U.S.

Bad Faith—Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

The United States and the Soviet Union wrangled angrily yesterday over collapse of lend-lease settlement talks set up by President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev last fall.

The Soviet embassy here issued a statement upbraiding the United States for bad faith in breaking off the negotiations. The state department icily countered that in effect the Russians were lying about what Khrushchev said.

The negotiations on the Second World War debt owed the U.S. by the Russians broke off last week because Soviet representatives insisted any settlement be tied to a relaxation of trade barriers and long-range U.S. loans to Russia.

The Soviet embassy claimed Khrushchev made it plain to Eisenhower at Camp David that any settlement talks had to be tied to trade and credit concessions to the Russians.

But a state department spokesman said, "Khrushchev stated that he didn't need any credits and he didn't want any credits."

The spokesman also said Eisenhower clearly advised Khrushchev that removal of trade restrictions and repeal of a law barring private loans to Russia was up to congress and would have to be dealt with separately.

Wherever You Go ---Radio

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Convicts were working on streets here. One asked permission of a guard to go into a nearby automobile accessories store.

"Why?" he was asked. "I want to get a battery for my transistor radio," he replied. "because the one in it has gone out and I just can't work as well without it."

U.S. Storing Nerve Gas In Colorado

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has enough nerve gas on hand "to kill every man, woman and child in the world," the U.S. House of Representatives was told Thursday by Representative Byron Johnson (Dem., Colo.), who said the gas is stored in his congressional district and that "a drop or two on the skin is fatal."

Events Cry Out: Look to Future

"British Columbia is ready to take off in the 60s," Trade Minister Robert Bonner told the legislature yesterday. (See also page 2.)

He said population is expected to increase from 1,595,000 as of Jan. 1 this year, to 2,200,000 by Jan. 1, 1970.

Personal income is expected to soar from $2,790,000,000 in 1959 to $4,800,000,000 in 1969.

SALES, OUTPUT

Retail sales are expected to jump from $1,688,000,000 to $3,100,000,000 in the same 10-year period; net value of production from $1,887,500,000 to $3,000,000,000; and the total labor force from 560,000 to 775,000.

Mr. Bonner pointed out B.C. population is growing at twice the national rate for Canada. He said that the United States population is expected to increase 20 per cent, to 210,000,000 people by 1970.

IMPACT GREATER

"We know now what we sell to 180,000,000 Americans. Add 20 per cent to their number and the impact upon us is not merely 20 per cent greater but, in the increasing complexity of our North American economy, a great deal more," he said.

"The events cry out to us, urging for preparation for the future," he said.

NO GRASP

He said there is a widespread inability or unwillingness to grasp the sense and the impact of events around us, "events which cannot fail to have a marked effect on the future development of the province."

"A future not less, but more promising than the record of the past."

PAST GAINS

He said that in 1950, selling value of B.C. factory shipments was at $1,133,000,000 and in 1959 reached just short of $2,000,000,000; in 1950 population was 1,137,000, today it is just short of 1,600,000; personal income was $1,398,000,000 in 1950, today it is about double at $2,790,000,000; in 1950 B.C. road users burned up 157,000,000 gallons of gasoline, today they burn 321,000,000 gallons annually; last year B.C. used 12,350,000,000 kilowatts of electrical energy, almost three times as much as in 1950.

DOUBTERS WRONG

"The doubters 10 years ago would have been the majority but in point of fact time would have proven them wrong," he said. "We are ready for much greater things, but the extent of our take-off in the 1960s lies in our ability to continue to attract capital and in increasing measure to produce it ourselves," he said.

DEVELOPMENT

"It will be necessary before we can take a great leap forward to develop one or more substantial manufacturing sectors with a high rate of growth," he observed.

Development in the next decade of the province's great energy resources found in hydro-electric sites and in oil and natural gas deposits, will raise the industrial potential of the B.C. economy at least tenfold, he said.

"Energy, more than anything else, will prove the major factor in the attraction and subsequent establishment of heavy industry in this province," he said. Mr. Bonner lamented that those opposing the plans for development of power in the province have so far discussed the question of hydro-electricity quite apart from any other influence, such as economic growth.

TRADE MINISTER BONNER
... better than ever

Columbia Might Hurt B.C. Trade

Cheap electricity alone will not open United States' markets to British Columbia production of even the most power-sensitive commodities, Trade Minister Robert Bonner warned the legislature yesterday.

He said B.C. might be hurting its own industry through development of the Columbia.

"By making available to the United States more than 1,000,000 kilowatts of downstream power benefits, the Americans will be physically able to replace with their own production, present or potential imports of British Columbia-produced power-sensitive commodities, especially aluminum," he said.

"We may be doing ourselves a disservice, unless we tackle simultaneously the problem of access to American markets by tariff adjustment," he warned.

U.S. Boosting Foreign Aid

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said yesterday the Eisenhower administration has decided to increase American aid to India—now $170,000,000—by at least 50 per cent, and probably more.
